HOTEL ATTACKS

An employe at the Carlton Towers Hotel in London examines a bullet hole in the window of the hotel today. Gunmen in a speeding car fired on two hotels staging Jewish functions Sunday night. One man was wounded in the leg and six women were hurt by flying glass. It was not clear whether the attacks were the work of Arab guerrillas or Irish Republican Army.

Suspect in shooting of cabbie is apprehended

A $2,500 reward has led to the arrest of the youth suspected of shooting taxi driver Roderick Carter Johnson in Claremont Dec. 27, police reported today.

The one who shot Johnson, 32, in the back that night is a 16-year-old Pomona boy who has admitted the incident, Claremont Police Detective Robert Brinegar said.

The youth was being held in the Claremont jail this morning on suspicion of assault with intent to commit murder, but police could not identify him because of a court ruling prohibiting identification of juvenile offenders.

The youth was arrested during the weekend after Brinegar was contacted by an informant who identified the 16-year-old as the one who shot Johnson. Pomona police assisted in the arrest in the northeast section of the city.

Brinegar said police also were holding another Pomonan in connection with the case. He was arrested at the same time and still was being questioned. Brinegar declined to identify him.

Johnson was shot during a robbery attempt after he arrived at 680 W. San Jose Ave. to pick up a fare. He had been sent there in response to a telephone call for a taxi placed from within that apartment complex, Brinegar said.

"I just shot the guy," the detective quoted the youth as saying when asked what went wrong during the holdup attempt.

Brinegar said the youth did not appear surprised at his arrest and apparently figured that the reward led to his being seized. The juvenile had been aware that a reward had been offered in the case.

Johnson was paralyzed by a bullet which cut his spinal cord. He remains in Pomona Valley Community Hospital in "very serious" condition.

Brinegar said he plans to keep the name of the informant confidential, which was a condition of the offer. The money was put up by the victim's stepfather, Dr. Gordon L. Barclay of Albany, N.Y., Gene Stalians, owner of the cab company, and an anonymous physician.

GM follows Ford, Chrysler on rebate plan

DETROIT (UPI) — General Motors Corp. announced today it is joining the price war among major automakers and will pay rebates ranging from $200 to $500 to buyers of its entire subcompact and compact model lines.

Chairman Thomas A. Murphy said the rebates will go directly to customers and are retroactive to customers who bought cars from Jan. 13.

Chrysler Corp., American Motors Corp. and Ford Motor Co. previously announced their own rebate programs in an effort to lure prospective buyers into showrooms and stimulate lagging new car sales.

GM, the giant of the industry, said it would pay $200 rebates to buyers of all Chevrolet Vega, Pontiac Astre, Chevrolet Nova, Pontiac Ventura, Oldsmobile Omega and Buick Apollo and Skylark models.

It also said it would pay $500 rebates on all Chevrolet Monza 2 plus 2, Oldsmobile Starfire and Buick Skyhawk models.

Murphy said he hoped the rebate program, which will run through Feb. 28 will dramatically increase the sale of 250,000 cars.

Arab airport gunmen free hostages, fly to Mideast

PARIS (UPI) — Three Arab gunmen today freed eight French hostages they had held at Orly Field for 17 hours on an Israeli jet airliner and flew to the Middle East on an Air France plane supplied by the French government.

The Iraqi News Agency, in a dispatch from Baghdad, said, "The plane has been refueled and it will continue its flight to an unknown destination on the demand of the armed men who insisted on continuing their journey,".

It reported earlier the gunmen tricked Baghdad airport into allowing them to land there by saying they were carrying freight to Kuwait and had to land for fuel. Later it said the Iraqi government allowed the plane to land "after pleas from the French authorities."

Moments after the aircraft landed in Baghdad an Iraqi foreign ministry official and the French ambassador in Baghdad boarded the plane, the agency said.

"They were assured that the crew was in good condition, and did not object to continuing the journey," the agency said.

The gunmen, their faces covered with black hoods, set their blindfolded hostages free after using them to cover their retreat to the steps of the jetliner. They had released a sobbing mother and her daughter earlier in the morning after Egyptian ambassador Naguib Abdel Hamid Kadry interceded at behest of President Valery Giscard d'Estaing.

The assailants took off shortly before an anonymous telephoned bomb threat delayed the departure of another El Al jetliner. The plane was searched but no bomb was found.

The getaway plane, the jetliner Chateau de Compiegne, took off at 9.55 a.m. (3:55 a.m. EST) from Orly airfield where the gunmen and their 10 captives had been barricaded since Sunday afternoon by a 250-man police force.

The incident began Sunday when the attackers mounted an observation deck at Orly Field and tried to shoot down an El Al Jumbo jet 747 as it was taking off for Tel Aviv with 220 persons aboard. Frustrated by policemen they turned their anger on the crowd and sprayed them with machinegun bullets and grenades, wounding 18 persons, eight seriously.

The attackers fled to a men's restroom and barricaded themselves inside with five women, four men and a child.

It was the second incident at Orly Field involving an El Al Israel airliner in a week. Last Monday Arab terrorists fired bazooka shells at a departing El Al plane, missed and hit a Yugoslav airliner, wounding three persons.

The Beirut and Paris offices of the Palestine Liberation Organization disclaimed any responsibility for the two attacks and charged the instigators were actually hurting the Palestinian cause. An angry Israel blamed the PLO and said Western Europe's "appeasement" of the PLO had led to the latest incidents.

Ford will hold news parley Tuesday on oil hike, tax cut

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Fashioning the details of his economic-energy package, President Ford today prepared proclamations to tighten oil imports and expand investment credit on business taxes, sources said.

The President plans to explain these and other spefics of his program at a televised news conference Tuesday.

Sources said the news conference —Ford's first of 1975 — will be held at 11 a.m. PST Tuesday and the proclamations will be issued this week.

One presidential proclamation will put into action Ford's plan for raising the duty on imported crude oil and petroleum products by $3 a barrel by April 1.

Another measure due for proclamation will make retroactive to Jan. 1 a 12 per cent investment credit on business taxes.

The oil order was designed to hold down imports until Congress acts on Ford's request for increasing excise taxes and import fees on domestic and imported crude oil. The tax credit was aimed at getting industry and business to build new plants and hire the unemployed.

Ford discussed these and other measures in the White House today with Budget Director Roy Ash, Chairman Alan Greenspan of the Council of Economic Advisers and L. Willman Seidman, presidential assistant for economic affairs.

Treasury Secretary William Simon did not go to the White House session and aides explained he had another meeting.

High court will study local laws banning topless

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court today agreed to decide whether broadly written local ordinances banning all forms of topless dancing —for art as well as profit —are constitutional.

The justices will schedule oral arguments and hand down a written decision, probably by June, which could force localities to strictly word antitopless laws to avoid infringing free speech rights.

The 2nd U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals struck down a broad antitopless law in North Hampstead, N.Y., on grounds it would forbid productions of the rock musical "Hair" and touring African dance performances which feature barebreasted native dancers.

The circuit court did not say it was unconstitutional to ban topless dancing in bars where there is a minimum element of self-expression, but concluded that the North Hempstead ban against topless or bottomless dancing in "a cabaret, bar, lounge, dance hall or discoteque or any other public place" went too far.

The justices also decided to hear arguments in two cases where lower courts broadly defined the rights of criminal defendants to avoid self-incrimination.

The Michigan Supreme Court ordered a new trial for a man convicted of murder and robbery on grounds police should have stopped questioning him as soon as the defendant said he wanted to remain silent. Police continued to question the accused until he confessed.

In the second case, the 9th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals reversed the conviction of a California man accused of armed robbery on grounds a key defense witness should have been allowed to testify without providing government prosecutors with copies of his statements to defense lawyers.

Area pilot dies of burns in crash of experimental plane

A 33-year-old Upland pilot was fatally burned when his experimental airplane crashed Sunday afternoon at Cable Airport.

His brother was burned and an Upland police officer and another man suffered smoke inhalation attempting to rescue him from the burning plane.

Jerry Robert Hibbard of 1267 W. 25th St., Upland, the pilot of the "Midget" experimental aircraft died last night at Loma Linda University Hospital with third degree burns over most of his body.

His brother Richard, 31, also of Upland, was listed in satisfactory condition at San Antonio Community Hospital with second degree burns on his arms. Officer Steve Shurtleff, a personal friend of the pilot, and another man were treated at the Upland hospital and later released.

Officer Shurtleff, at the airport at the time of the crash said:

Hibbard had been having trouble with the engine's oil pressure all day. He made one high speed taxi run and returned to make another taxi run.

"He then took off climbing to an altitude of about 50 feet in full control. Then his wing tipped. From my point of view (on the east side of the airport behind some hangars), he began to experience some difficulty at about 100 feet. His engine stalled, I guess," Shurtleff said.

"He pulled the nose up gaining about another 50 feet, then his left wing dropped. The aircraft nosed over in a stall. I began heading down the runway in my police unit. The aircraft disappeared for a few seconds, then I observed smoke and the pilot still inside of the burning aircraft."

Shurtleff, the pilot's brother and the third man arrived at the burning airplane about the same time. Shurtleff said he and the other men began tugging at the pilot's shoulder harnesses until they finally got him out of the cockpit.

Shurtleff said that he had flown with Hibbard before and knew him to be a qualified commercial pilot with an instructor's permit. Shurtleff said he had helped Hibbard in repairing the small red and yellow one-seat plane built by Hibbard at Cable airport.

The third man who helped in the rescue was not identified.

Court disbars Nixon counsel Charles Colson

RICHMOND, Va. (UPI) — Former White House Special Counsel Charles W. Colson was disbarred in Virginia today by the state's Supreme Court for his role in the break-in of the office of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist.

The court heard arguments in December on the possible revocation of Colson's license to practice law in the state.

A Virginia lawyer since 1958, Colson pleaded guilty last June to one count of obstruction of justice in connection with the break-in at Ellsberg's psychiatrist.

Lawyers for the Virginia State Bar had sought disbarment, saying Colson's crime flaunted the administration of justice and the legal profession.

Colson's attorneys argued that the former counsel to former President Nixon thought he was acting in the interest of national security when he ordered the break-in.

Colson currently is serving his sentence at Ft. Holabird in Baltimore, Md.

Social Security hurting, may borrow Medicare funds

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A Social Security Advisory Council has voted to recommend diverting Medicare funds to support old age and retirement benefits.

General revenues would be used in substantial amounts for the first time to replace the diverted medicare funds. Eventually, the revenues would give the hospital portion of the health insurance program for the aged some of the financing characteristics of a welfare program, possibly by the beginning next year.

If Congress approves the recommendation, the money raised from payroll taxes to provide the government's share of hospital insurance for 23.5 million older Americans would be reallocated "on a gradual, as needed" basis to the monthly cash benefits trust funds, according to an observer at the weekend meetings of the 13-member council.

As the hospital funds are reallocated, general revenues would be used to replace them until the government's portion of Medicare is financed from general revenues, like welfare for needy families and aid to the needy aged, blind and disabled.

The council reversed its earlier recommendation to Congress to raise payroll taxes on middle and upper income workers and settled instead on the use of Medicare hospital funds, the observer said.

Eight hold down stab victim in operation

Man has open heart surgery awake

SANTA MONICA (UPI) — A quick thinking doctor was credited today with saving the life of a San Bernardino man who was stabbed in the heart in an attack by three youths and later underwent open heart surgery while conscious.

Doctors at Santa Monica Hospital said Herman Paulk, 45, was in critical condition in the intensive care unit, but said his chances for survival were good.

Paulk and his wife, Lorraine, had been strolling along the cliff-side Pacific Palisades Park Sunday evening to enjoy the balmy weather when a car drove up and three youths got out.

Police said one of the youths wrapped his arms around the woman and pinned her arms to her side while the other two attacked her husband and stabbed him in the chest.

The youths then got back into their car and drove off, taking neither the man's wallet nor the woman's purse.

Paulk staggered a few feet and then collapsed. His wife screamed for help and an ambulance soon arrived to rush Paulk to the hospital's emergency room.

When the staff saw he had been stabbed in the heart, they called for Dr. William G. Plested, a heart specialist who lived nearby.

Assessing the situation, Plested decided there was no time to take Paulk into the operating room. While eight persons held Paulk down, the doctor cut open the man's chest and put retractors between his ribs and pulled them apart.

Paulk was then administered morphine to ease the pain while Plested reached into the chest cavity and sutured the wound.

Your income tax

By RAY DE CRANE

The reporting of capital gains will not pose too many problems for investors. Last year's tumbling stock market did not provide too many profit opportunities.

The taking of losses will be the major concern for most on their current income tax return.

If you had securities transactions last year you must report them on Schedule D which you will attach to your Form 1040.

Have your broker's confirmation slips available for it will provide all the information required. First separate all your transactions into short-term and long-term sales.

A short-term sale results when you have retained the security six months or less before selling. A long-term transaction occurs when your holding period was longer than six months — six months and one day will suffice for this purpose.

Report first all your short term transactions, offsetting losses against gains to arrive at a net position.

Do the same with your long-term sales, again arriving at a net position of either a gain or a loss.

Here are the general rules to apply. Think 100 per cent for short-term. A gain is totally taxable. A loss is totally deductable, although not more than $1,000 of it can be applied in any one year against ordinary income.

Think 50 per cent for long-term sales. Only half the gain is taxable; only half the loss is deductible. Since the loss limitation is $1,000 in any one year, it will take $2,000 in long-term losses to offset $1,000 in ordinary income.

If you have unused losses because of the $1,000 limitation, they are carried over to succeeding years. They retain their original characteristic. Short-term loss carryovers forever remain short-term losses.

A long-term loss carryover will always be identified as a long-term loss. But in carrying the loss over to the next year it is not first divided in half. The full amount of the remaining loss is carried forward.

(NEXT: Don't Ignore Miscellaneous Deductions.)

Rousselot agrees with Ford tax plan: wants deficit cut

REP. JOHN ROUSSELOT, R-26th Dist., said he favored President Gerald Ford's theme of a tax rebate to allow taxpayers rather than the government to determine how the money should be spent.

But with the tax returns, there must be some major spending cuts or the deficit could drain the private market for money that could be used in other programs such as housing, he added.

"My belief is the President was speaking for the average taxpayers who want federal taxes and spending reduced so they can spend their own earnings by their choices rather than the federal government making the decisions. The average worker does not feel he is presently getting a fair return on dollars given to government."

Rousselot also said that he favored Ford's program for self-sufficiency in energy supplies and that he rejected gas rationing or higher gasoline taxes which could produce unwanted results. The legislator also supported a proposal to use a part of the Elk Hills reserve until the pipeline to Alaska can be completed.

ASSEMBLYMAN BILL LANCASTER, R-62nd Dist., said federal revenue sharing formulas should take into account the special status of California cities.

Many municipal services are provided by special districts rather than the cities themselves. And in cases where citizens pay taxes directly to these districts, the cities are not credited in the revenue sharing formula, he explained.

The Covina legislator has introduced an Assembly joint resolution which requests Congress to redefine the "tax effort" as found in the State and Local Assistance Act of 1974.

Since this act will expire in 1976, Congress will have to pass a new bill this year if it is going to continue, he reported. "I am hopeful that if the joint resolution passes this will have an effect on the writing of new legislation."

'World is our campus'

35 will study in Greece

More than 35 La Verne College students will travel to Greece next year for three months of intensive foreign study under the direction of Nicholas C. Polos, associate professor of history.

The new pilot program, La Verne College Study-Travel (LV-STP), will allow the American students to discover for themselves the "glory that is Greece today," Polos said. He described the program as an exciting expansion of the La Verne philosophy that "the world is our campus."

Though those enrolled in the study-travel program will gear a year's study to the target area (Greece), only the three month spring semester will actually be spent overseas. While on the home campus in the fall, students will carry a normal class load which will include a class in Western civilization. Before leaving for Greece in February, all participants will be required to take an intensive one-month course in Greek language and Hellenic culture. A high degree of proficiency in the Greek language is not a requirement for the course.

While abroad, in addition to travel experiences, students will take two additional courses with Polos and an independent or directed study in the areas of their interests.

The history professor said the program, open to all full-time students and those students who will be enrolled in the fall of this year, is being offered at a cost of $200, above the usual costs of passport, shots, student identification cards and other small expenses. He explained that air fare to and from Greece is included in the regular tuition and project costs.

Because the travel-study program has been received with general enthusiasm, plans are presently being completed for the next project area — Quito, Ecuador, under the direction of Dwight Hanawalt, professor of physical education. Plans call for extending the project to include India and Asian countries later.

School plans alternatives if hike fails

Lee Watts, president of Associated Chaffey Teachers, will appear before the Chaffey school board Tuesday to present a statement on budgetary cuts should the March 4 tax override fail.

The meeting will be held at 7 p.m. in the board room of the administration building at 211 W. 5th St., Ontario.

The school district faces about a $1.8 million budgetary deficit for next year if the tax override fails. The proposal calls for increases in the general purpose tax rate of $1.72 per $100 of assessed valuation in 1975-76, up to $2.39 in 1976-77 and to $2.39 in 1977-78.

District business manager Milo Thomas will submit a letter of resignation for retirement purposes effective Aug. 7. Thomas has been with the district since 1946.

School board members will be asked to approve the school calendar for 1975-76.

Spaghetti dinner for boosters

The Ontario High School Boosters Club will sponsor a spaghetti dinner Tuesday from 5 to 7:30 p.m. in the school cafeteria.

Proceeds will be used to provide awards for student groups.

The food will be served by parents, students and faculty members.

The menu will include spaghetti, garlic bread and salad. Beverages will be 5 cents extra. Cost of the dinner will be $1.50 for adults, $1 for children 12 and under.

This will be the seventh year the Booster Club has held the dinner.

Saxbe, Richardson deny FBI congressional snooping

WASHINGTON (UPI) — While several congressmen promised a complete inquiry, Attorney General William Saxbe and former Attorney General Elliot Richardson said today investigators will find no evidence that the FBI keeps files on members of Congress.

Saxbe and Richardson responded to a report Sunday in the Washington Post that the FBI under the direction of former Director J. Edgar Hoover began collecting dossiers on the drinking and sexual habits of congressmen and senators.

"If they're looking for another Watergate," Saxbe said, "they're going to be disappointed."

Rep. Robert W. Kastenmeier, D-Wis., chairman of a subcommittee on the administration of justice, immediately promised to call present and former FBI officials to testify on the charges.

Sen. John O. Pastore, D-R.I., chairman of the Appropriations subcommittee on the judiciary, proposed an investigation by a special select committee and Senate Democrats were to meet today to consider several such proposals.

Saxbe and Richardson, interviewed together on ABC's "AM America," said an investigation would be valuable to clear the air of such charges.

Both of them maintained, however, that their own inquiries uncovered no evidence to indicate that the FBI was keeping dossiers on congressmen.

"I've looked in to this," Saxbe said. "There is a certain amount of congressional information that comes in from other cases ... but as far as having files and dossiers, that's not true."

Richardson, who preceded Saxbe as attorney general, said he inquired about the possibility of such files on congressmen during his confirmation hearings "and I received a very explicit denial of it."

"And I'm quite sure that letters have gone to the Senate Judiciary Committee over the signatures of attorney generals saying this is not so," he added. "A lot of people have been doing a very elaborate job of concealment if that's so."

Richardson said a congressional investigation would be welcome "if only to create the assurance that the FBI is not abusing its power."

Saxbe criticized the way the Post story was developed, based on "a smattering of knowledge" from former FBI employes.

The newspaper based its story on information obtained from two former top Hoover aides —Cartha Deloach and Louis Nichols —who said the FBI files contained personal information about congressmen.

Dislikes Ford's fuel tax plan

Ways-Means chief favors rationing

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. Al Ullman, D-Ore., chairman of the tax-writing House Ways and Means Committee, said today he favors gasoline rationing over President Ford's proposed energy taxes as a way of reducing fuel consumption.

Ullman admitted that rationing is a "tough bullet to bite," but he said, "Rationing, it seems to me, is going to be the ultimate objective and the thing we're going to have to do."

He said it would be "almost impossible" to convince Congress to pass Ford's energy tax proposals because it is an "unfair way of applying a tax on energy."

Ullman's assessment coincided with the latest Gallup Poll which said 55 per cent of the American public prefer nationwide rationing of gasoline over Ford's $30 billion energy tax plan. Thirty-two per cent said they felt Ford's tax plan is the best way to reduce the country's use of gasoline.

On Sunday, Energy Administrator Frank Zarb said Ford's new energy proposals may ultimately drive the price of gasoline up higher than the extra 10 cents a gallon previously discussed by administration officials.

Zarb said the 10-cent figure represents only the average impact on all types of refined petroleum products expected to result from the $3 per barrel tariff increase Ford plans to impose on all imported crude oil.

"The average price of petroleum product will go up 10 cents a gallon," Zarb said.

"The average price of gasoline may go up somewhat more but that means ... the products people need day-in and day-out and have little choice over, such as fuel oil, may (go up) a little less than 10 cents a gallon."

Zarb, who was interviewed on CBS's Face the Nation, did not say how high the price of gasoline might climb.

In another interview, Interior Secretary Rogers Morton did not disagree when it was suggested that the Ford plan might bring a 14 or 15 cent per gallon gasoline increase.

Morton noted that Europeans have placed high taxes on fuel to cut consumption, and said "let's start with the President's program in the Congress, and if it later needs adjusting, let's adjust it."

From the mouths of babes

HOUSTON (UPI) — Brad Ratliff is 8 years old and he understands the economy.

"Inflation is nobody," he wrote. "Think of the poor people who do not know what inflation is.

"We know what inflation is. It's like blowing up a balloon and when the balloon pops that is called recession."

Brad Ratliff is in the second grade at Ashford Elementary School. He and the rest of his class were asked last week to write papers on the meaning of inflation.

"I think inflation is where the prices gos up in food and toys," wrote Mary Ruth Walton. "We don't have to wery about the price of jelly becose my grandma makes jelly."

"It is not wise to bey food and not eat it," Nicki Ceaney wrote. "When you have money for something you should be sher to not lose it."

"I think that inflation is going to far," Danny Caster said. "People are going out of business. Peopl are stealing money from other people and becose of inflation peopl are geting por jest becose of money."

"I think the prices are bad because all the poor people don't have enough money for clothing and food to eat and things to live on," wrote Jodie Brown.

"I think prices are going up to much," Jim Hostak said. "I think the poor are starving to much."

Cherly Ayers was the only student who said inflation had actually affected her life.

"At lunch time I am not getting sweets and we are not bying close," she said. "My mother will by faberick and macks close.

"I am not bying my lunch at school very much. It has gone up. We are not haveing egg in the morning and we are not bying kolade. It's gone up. The gas has gone up too."

This is some honeymoon?

ATLANTA (UPI) — Police officers Lee and Dan Genson knew they would face danger together when they decided to marry. They didn't know the danger would mar their honeymoon.

The Gensons, working as a sex crimes squad, Sunday night stopped a car that had sideswiped their patrol car and Dan got into a struggle with two men, one of whom grabbed the detective's pistol and pointed it at his head.

"I couldn't believe it," said Lee. "There I was and I had been married just two days and my husband was getting shot. I just knew if I shot into the three, I would kill my husband. I was in shock."

Mrs. Genson radioed for help, pulled her gun and held two other passengers, both women, in the car.

The man holding Genson's gun fired it twice inches from his head, but Genson suffered only powder burns. The bullets apparently wounded the man struggling with the detective.

By this time, officer J.W. Carlisle had arrived and he and Mrs. Genson fired at the man with the gun, killing him. The dead man was identified as Charles H. Burnett Jr., 27. His father, Charles Sr., 43, was hospitalized in serious condition.

Genson said he and Lee had been married Friday night and returned to work Saturday. Part of their wedding cake still was in the patrol car Sunday night.

"How's this for a honeymoon?" he asked.

Bank sale heads off failure

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Chemical Bank of New York City, the nation's seventh largest, has grown a bit more —by absorbing the Security National Bank of Hempstead, N.Y.

Facing "probable failure" because of delinquent loans and a loss of public confidence, Security National —rated 55th largest of the nation's banks, with assets of $1.8 billion —was sold Sunday to Chemical.

James E. Smith, U.S. Comptroller of Currency, said an "emergency" existed at Security National. All depositors of Security National will automatically become depositors in Chemical, which also takes over "virtually all other liabilities," Smith said.

The Security National branches are to open as usual, but under the Chemical name.

Smith called the takeover a "very constructive result for the Security National Bank shareholders and depositors for the Chemical Bank and for the public interest in a stable and healthy banking system."

Chemical, with assets of $17.8 billion, also paid $40 million in cash to Security National as part of the deal. Chemical has 181 branch offices in the New York area.

Of the $40 million paid by Chemical, $2 million was to be held in escrow for three years against "possible undisclosed liabilities of Security National Bank" which may be uncovered during an audit.

Chinatown embezzle suspect returns

Quailand Tom and mother upon his return

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A Chinatown bank manager suspected of embezzling a half million dollars flew home from Japan Sunday and surrendered to waiting FBI agents.

"I'm not running away from anything," said Quailand Tom, 40. He said he didn't even know he was wanted until he "read about it in the newspapers."

Tom was manager of the Chinatown branch of San Francisco Federal Savings and Loan Association when he was named in a federal complaint for embezzlement last Tuesday.

Company sources said Tom left for a planned vacation to China two days early after he was confronted with evidence that some deposit accounts had been tampered with.

The FBI traced Tom to Taipei, Hong Kong and Tokyo before he telephoned his attorney, George T. Davis, and agreed to return to San Francisco and voluntarily surrender.

The FBI said he would be charged at his arraignment today with "having negotiated and converted to his own use approximately $436,000" from May to December.

Tom was held on $500,000 bail, but Davis said he would seek a bail reduction at the arraignment. "He's presumed to be innocent," Davis said. "He's returned voluntarily."

3rd term for new, 'integrated' Wallace

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (UPI) — Gov. George Wallace, priming for another probable presidential campaign, became Alabama's first three-term governor today and promised to work for a better life for everyone and to speak out "promptly and forcefully" on national affairs.

Wallace said in his prepared inaugural remarks that "many things have changed" since he first took office in 1963 on a vow of "segregation forever." He said a spirit of unity that had developed over the last 12 years was "one of the great advances of this period."

The 55-year-old Wallace, paralyzed from the waist down from an attempt on his life in the 1972 presidential campaign, said he was not content to dwell on the past but anxious to tackle the future.

"Our citizens have been subjected to many difficult and trying experiences," Wallace said, "but, as is usually the case, adversity has made us a more dedicated and unified people."

Wallace, who tried to block school integration in the early 1960's, said that in all segments of Alabama from the factory worker, school child, legislative and executive branch "we find a unity of effort and purpose which can only be to the benefit of this state and her people."

He has appointed a black, Birmingham weekly newspaper publisher Jesse Lewis, to his Cabinet, making him the first Alabama governor this century to place a black in a high governmental position. He plans to name another black as an administrative assistant.

Wallace said he will continue to be involved in national affairs and promised to "speak out promptly and forcefully on those things I feel important to America and to Alabama in particular.

"I will continue my interest in all things related to the welfare of this state and this nation," Wallace said, "and will not hesitate to speak out when and where necessary. To do less would be a dereliction of my duties."

Chou warns of a Russian-U.S. World War III

HONG KONG (UPI) — Chinese Premier Chou En-lai, newly confirmed in his powerful position, warned in a speech released today that a new world war is in the making.

The 76-year old Chou spoke to the just concluded National People's Congress which adopted a new constitution naming Chairman Mao Tse-tung as commander in chief of the armed forces and abolishing the post of head of state. It was the first NPC in 10 years.

Although Chou's 3,300-word report was delivered Jan. 13, the first day of the five-day NPC meeting, it was released only today by the New China News Agency. Nearly half of it was devoted to international affairs.

"The contention for world hegemony between the two superpowers, the United States and the Soviet Union, is becoming more and more intense," Chou said.

"Their contention has extended to every corner of the world, the focus of their contention being Europe.

"The two superpowers are the biggest international oppressors and exploiters today, and they are the source of a new world war. Their fierce competition is bound to lead to world war some day."

Chou advised that "the people of all countries must get prepared" for the eventual new world war.

"In this world, at present," Chou said, "the factors for both revolution and war are increasing. Whether war gives rise to revolution or revolution prevents war, in either case the international situation will develop in a direction favorable to the people and the future of the world."

Weekend bandits hit 10 valley sites

Armed robbers struck 10 times in the valley during the weekend, including two private homes in Pomona and a motel in Montclair.

In Pomona Sunday night a woman told police that two men beat her in her home and fled with $1,600 in cash which she had set aside to pay off the mortgage on her house.

Pamela Maria Ortiz, 26, was knocked down and threatened with a knife by one of the two men. A visitor in the house, Steven L. Grant, 20, Pomona, also was threatened. Both he and Mrs. Ortiz were tied up before the pair fled.

The incident occurred at 1034 E. Philadelphia St. after Mrs. Ortiz admitted the two men into the house. She said she was sitting, talking to them when one suddenly leaped up, knocked her from her chair and demanded "the money." Before they fled the men pulled the telephone from the wall.

In a similar incident, a 78-year-old Pomona man said a man and a woman, who had asked to use his telephone because of car trouble, robbed him in his home after threatening him with a 6-inch knife.

Robert M. Draper, 740 N. Palomares St., said the pair took cash from his wallet before fleeing.

Two other robberies occurred in Pomona Sunday night. At the 7-Eleven Market at 624 S. Dudley St., Jai Ho Kim, 26, surrendered cash to a bandit armed with a revolver shortly before midnight. Kim said the man was a Caucasian about 20, 5 feet 6 weighing 160 pounds.

At Der Wienerschnitzel, 520 E. Mission Blvd., countergirl Karen Sistos, 16, was robbed by a man who also had a revolver. The robber was described as a Caucasian about 20 years old, 5 feet 7 weighing 150 pounds. He had dark hair and a thin mustache.

Saturday night, five youths, one with a sawed-off rifle, robbed Melvin I. Schillings, 63, at Pomona Miniature Golf, 517 E. Foothill Blvd.

Schillings said the five entered shortly before 9:30 and took money from a cash box after one showed the weapon. He was described as a Negro about 22, 6 feet, weighing 165 pounds.

In Ontario, four men, three armed with pistols and a rifle, robbed the Holiday Inn 1801 E. G St. Saturday night taking a moderate amount of cash and change, according to Ontario police.

Police said the four men walked into the motel office about 11:15 p.m. Two of the men went to the restroom. A short time later two of the men, both armed with small pistols suddenly jumped over the counter and confronted the desk clerk, Chester Whiting.

The gunman told Whiting "Don't move," and reached into the cash drawer. Whiting said another man in the lobby at the time was armed with what looked like a sawed off rifle. The four robbers then calmly walked out of the motel and escaped.

In Montclair, Pete Daily, 23, said he was slashed in the neck by a maN was slashed in the neck by a man who attempted to rob him in a field behind Ace Liquor Store in the 4700 block of Holt Boulevard.

Daily told police that he was walking through the field when a man described as a Caucasian, about 20, came up from behind with a knife. Daily said that the man ordered him to hand over his wallet.

Dailey said he refused and hit the robber with his elbow. Police said that in an ensuing struggle Daily was slashed across the neck, but was not injured seriously. Daily said the robber then fled on foot in a northwesterly direction.

Daily was given emergency first aid treatment by firemen and released.

Daily further described his assailant as weighing about 200 pounds, stood 5 feet 10, and was wearing a blue jacket and blue Levis.

In Upland Edward Parker complained to police that he was in his carport at 1315 W. Arrow Highway when he was confronted by three young Negroes, one armed with a revolver, who demanded his money Sunday.

Parker said he told the robbers he had no money and they took a set of keys instead and fled.

Parker further described the robbers as being about 16 to 20, one weighing between 145 and 160 pounds and the other weighing over 200 pounds. He said the weapon could have been either a .22 or .32-caliber revoler.

Also in Ontario police were investigating two small market robberies, one at the Circle K store at 1442 S. Euclid Ave. and the other at the Stop and Go Market at D Street and Mountain Avenue, where a lone gunman made off with cash and food stamps on Saturday.

Police said at the Stop and Go Market, the suspect, a Caucasian, about 23 or 24, armed with a small pistol, ordered the clerk, Theodore Hoffman, to hand over his cash from the register and his food stamps.

In the second robbery only a few minutes later at the Circle K Store, a lone gunman, again described as a Caucasian in his 20s demanded that the clerk, Diana Deeremiah, hand over the cash from the register and food stamps.

Assembly seeks oil depletion end, lower drinking age statute

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — California lawmakers take up legislation this week to end the oil depletion allowance, give 18-year-olds the right to drink and make $750 million available in new housing loans.

In addition, the legislators face measures to halt construction of the new governor's mansion, open legislative records to public scrutiny and rival bills to repeal a controversial program in former Gov. Ronald Reagan's 1971 welfare reform package.

The measures to wipe out the special tax allowance and lower the drinking age have reached the Assembly floor and sponsors hope to bring the bills up for a vote Thursday. Similar pieces of legislation cleared the lower house in the past, but were killed in the Senate.

Legislation (AB117) by Assemblyman Bill Lockyer, D-San Leandro, to end the oil depletion allowance was sent to the floor from the Revenue and Taxation Committee on a bipartisan vote despite industry protests.

The measure would raise an additional $50 million annually in state revenues now written off by companies and individual oil investor Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr., an outspoken critic of the special tax break, supports the measure.

The drinking age constitutional amendment (ACA15) by Assemblyman Robert C. Cline, R-Northridge, moved to the floor after clearing the Judiciary Committee. If approved by the legislature and passed by the voters, it would lower the drinking age in California from 21 to 18.

Two measures were expected to be taken up by the Senate Local Government Committee today that would provide new housing revenues for developers. Both bills would make low-interest, state-supported loans available for low and middle income family dwellings.

One measure (SB29) by Sen. George N. Zenovich, D-Fresno, would provide up to $450 million for loans, while another (SB50) by Sen. George Moscone, D-San Francisco, would make up to $300 million available. Presumably only one of the rival bills will make it to the governor's desk for signature.

Also in the Senate, Finance Director Roy Bell is scheduled to testify before the Finance Committee today to discuss the $11.3 billion budget proposed by the governor.

The Assembly Governmental Organization Committee Tuesday is scheduled to consider legislation (AB14) by Assemblyman John Vasconcellos to halt construction of the new governor's mansion.

However, Vasconcellos' bill, already delayed one week, may be held up again this week while legislative leaders and the governor figure out what to do with the mansion.

Recent legislative counsel opinions have raised the possibility the donors of the 11-acre site could go to court to repossess the land if construction is stopped or the mansion is used for anything but a governor's residence.

Rival measures will be taken up in both house to repeal the "relatives responsibility" program considered a maior part of welfare reform by Reagan.

The Assembly Ways and Means Committee is expected to take up Tuesday a measure (AB93) by Lockyer while the Senate Health and Welfare Committee Wednesday considers legislation (SB46) by Sen. Ralph Dills, D-Gardena.

Muralist Benton dead at 85

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — Thomas Hart Benton painted for the common American, the critics be damned. The nation mourned his death today.

Benton, 85, collapsed at his home Sunday night. He was rushed to Menorah Medical Center where he was pronounced dead. The cause of death was not immediately determined.

His many murals and paintings show homespun scenes from everyday life in strong swift line and bright colors. He painted farmers in the field, hillbillies fiddling and drinking and black sharecroppers picking cotton.

Benton's paintings always carried an earthy tone. One which hangs in the Missouri capitol in Jefferson City depicts so much of the seamier side of his native state's history it touched off controversy which raged for years. Another mural, painted for the Indiana statehouse, touched off a furor because it depicted the rise of the Ku Klux Klan.

Benton's answer to the critics was that "these incidents are a part of the whole history of the state and should be included. You've got to take the warts with the good stuff."

Among his close friends was the late President Harry S. Truman, who once called him "the best damned artist in America." Shortly before Truman's death in 1972, Benton completed a portrait of the former president.

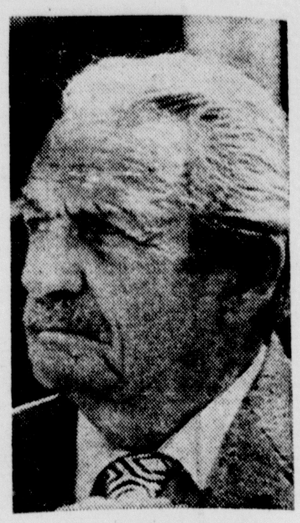

He also painted the huge mural, "Independence and the Opening of the West," that hangs in the Harry Truman library in Independence, Mo.

Benton was born in Neosho, 20 miles south of Joplin, on April 15, 1889, and went to Joplin to live when he was 17, where he obtained his first job as a cartoonist for the Joplin American.

At 19, Benton went to Chicago, where he studied at the Art Institute, then to Paris. He went to New York in 1912, struggling to survive by painting stage scenery for a then thriving motion picture business in Fort Lee, N.J.

The next 20 years were the most experimental of the artist's life as he dabbled in abstraction and then developed the bold and realistic style for which was to become famous. He later rejected abstractionist paintings as "artistic decadence."

Though he considered himself a Socialist in the 1920s, with the coming of the Great Depression he objected to radical politics which insisted that art should be subjugated to propaganda.

THOMAS HART BENTON

In 1935, he became dissatisfied with cities and with the East and moved to Missouri. From the middle 1940s until his death, Benton divided his years between homes in Kansas City and Martha's Vineyard, Mass. painting and writing each day with the rise of the sun. In his later years, he reduced his volume of paintings.

Benton's wife, the former Rita Piacenza, whom he married in 1923, served as his business agent. The couple had two children, a son, Thomas, and a daughter, Jessie.

Refinery unrest continues

By United Press International

Close to 2,000 refinery workers remained on strike in California today but another 500 members of the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers Union prepared this week to vote on a new Mobil Oil Co. contract.

The widespread labor disputes that have caused strikes by OCAW members across the country saw one tentative settlement reached but another new strike.

The OCAW got approval from its headquarters in Denver, Colo., Sunday to vote on a new Mobil Oil pact, offering a retroactive 75 cents an hour raise and another 12 per cent hike over the next two years.

S.F. Valley gas well blaze out of control

GRANADA HILLS, Calif. (UPI) — Texas il well firefighter Red Adair was called in today to try to halt a 125-foot column of flame erupting at a leaking underground natural gas storage well.

The Pacific Lighting Services Co., which owns the northern Los Angeles County gas storage field where the flaming well is located, said one million cubic feet of gas could be burned off each day the fire continues.

The field has a capacity of 70 billion cubic feet of natural gas and a company spokesman said there was no immediately known way to shut the leaking gas off.

No structures were endangered by the blaze near the edge of the Angeles National Forest but city and county fire units were sent to the area to prevent brush fires.

Adair specializes in battling well fires and is frequently called in during major blazes, especially to put out flaming oil wells along the Gulf Coast.

The natural gas well exploded into flames while workmen were trying to seal a leaking gas line by pumping driller's mud down the well. The storage field is one of four owned by Pacific Lighting Services, which is affiliated with the Southern California Gas Co.

The blaze was seen by many startled San Fernando Valley residents, who flooded police and fire stations with telephone calls.

New blood donor program offers added incentives

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — If you want a secure future, invest your blood in a bank.

Under a new program just going into effect in this area, anyone who donates blood will have most of their future blood needs available without charge throughout the country whenever the necessity arises.

The Intermountain Health Care Corp. and the American Red Cross —which provides about 80 per cent of the blood supply to Utah, Idaho, and parts of Colorado, New Mexico and Wyoming —signed a reciprocal agreement to this effect last summer.

Prior to the program, a volunteer was eligible for these services only through the industry, government, church, school, fraternal or civic group to which he donated. Only Red Cross donors were assured of receiving free blood anywhere in the country.

The new pilot project allows any church, employe or civic group to offer such nonrestrictive protection to volunteers who give blood.

In fact, the program offers the services to 40 persons for each donor for a year following the giving of blood. The 40 group members rotate so that "a different volunteer gives blood each time to insure the blood services for the rest of the group.

"The most important provision of the new agreement provides for a transfer of previously donated blood credits or blood, regardless of where the advanced donation was made, thereby obviating the need to make additional donations to replace the used blood," said Dr. Harold B. Anstall, medical director of the Intermountain Red Cross Blood Center.

The primary purpose of the program, however, was to provide extra incentive for blood donations. It was feared that by the end of the year even fewer than the present 3 per cent of the American population will be donating "the gift of life."

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

The alternating rise and fall in the large fluid bodies of the earth known as tides are caused by the combined gravitational attraction of the sun and moon. The tide-generating force represents the difference between the centrifugal force produced by the revolution of the earth around the common center-of-gravity of the earth-moon system, and the gravitational attraction of the moon acting upon the earth's overlying waters, The World Almanac notes.

Cottage cheese is good food for shrew

By DR. FRANK MILLER

DEAR DR. MILLER: Inky Dinky eats an awful lot of earthworms and any insects I find for him. He even ate a mouse I tried to give him as a friend. I just discovered he likes cottage cheese. Since you recommend cottage cheese for a lot of different animals, I wonder if it would be OK for a shrew, too.—M.H.

DEAR M.H.: Certainly cottage cheese is an excellent food for any insectivore, including Inky Dinky Shrew.

DEAR DR. MILLER: Is it fair to be suspicious of Fluffy? She's still nursing her last kittens off and on. They're about seven weeks old.—F.E.

Dear F.E.: Well, it might be fair. What are you suspicious of? Is her belly beginning to bulge a bit again? Is she becoming more maternal looking daily instead of losing this aura? Certainly by now your suspicions (along that line) would be confirmed if true. It's normal for cats to have a menstrual cycle within ten to fourteen days after kittening. Most of these mothers are too devoted to their offspring to heed the call, but should a male be conveniently close or, for that matter, should the call be sufficiently overwhelming, she just might slip away long enough to do what Fluffy apparently did—starting all over again.

DEAR DR. MILLER: My husband considers me a food faddist. I know what's good for me and try to eat it. One of our disagreements concerns milk vs. yogurt, which I consider vastly superior to milk. I whip up this yogurt drink, which I know is better for me, and it's even beter for our dog. Dixie. She can drink the yogurt and does famously on it. Whenever she drinks that much milk, she gets diarrhea. I feel that's further proof of yogurt's superiority as a natural food. Wouldn't you agree?—A.S.

Dear A.S.: Dixie's diarrhea brought on by milk consumption is probably related to the lactose (milk sugar) contained in milk. Some dogs and, more frequently, cats do not have the necessary digestive enzymes to handle this milk sugar. The result is fermentation and diarrhea. Your yogurt concoction undoubtedly contains considerably less lactose, hence Dixie can handle it. For Dixie and other animals unable to digest milk sugar, the yogurt drink would prove superior nutritionally.

Clubs need pro's touch

By Oswald & James Jacoby

James: "South knew enough about dummy play to see that there was no time to develop any diamond tricks. The opponents would get their spades in first. He also had some idea about how to play the club suit. He won the spade on his hand; led a club to dummy's ace and a club back to his ten. East showed out. West had two club stoppers and South came up two tricks short of his contract."

Oswald: "A little expert knowledge would have helped declarer. In fact it would have made the difference between down two and game and rubber."

Jim: "One sees easily that the contract is going to make any time the East-West clubs divide 3-2. South's problem is to try to guard against a 4-1 split. If South had enough entries to dummy, he could lead to the ace and bring the contract home any time West held the singleton queen or jack. But that won't be any good here.

The only 4-1 combinations he can guard against are those that find East with a singleton nine or eight. South should lead the ten of clubs and let it ride if West ducks. If West covers, South wins; leads low back to his seven to leave West with jack five and then takes the proven finesse against him."

Some progress on Cyprus talks, says Kissinger

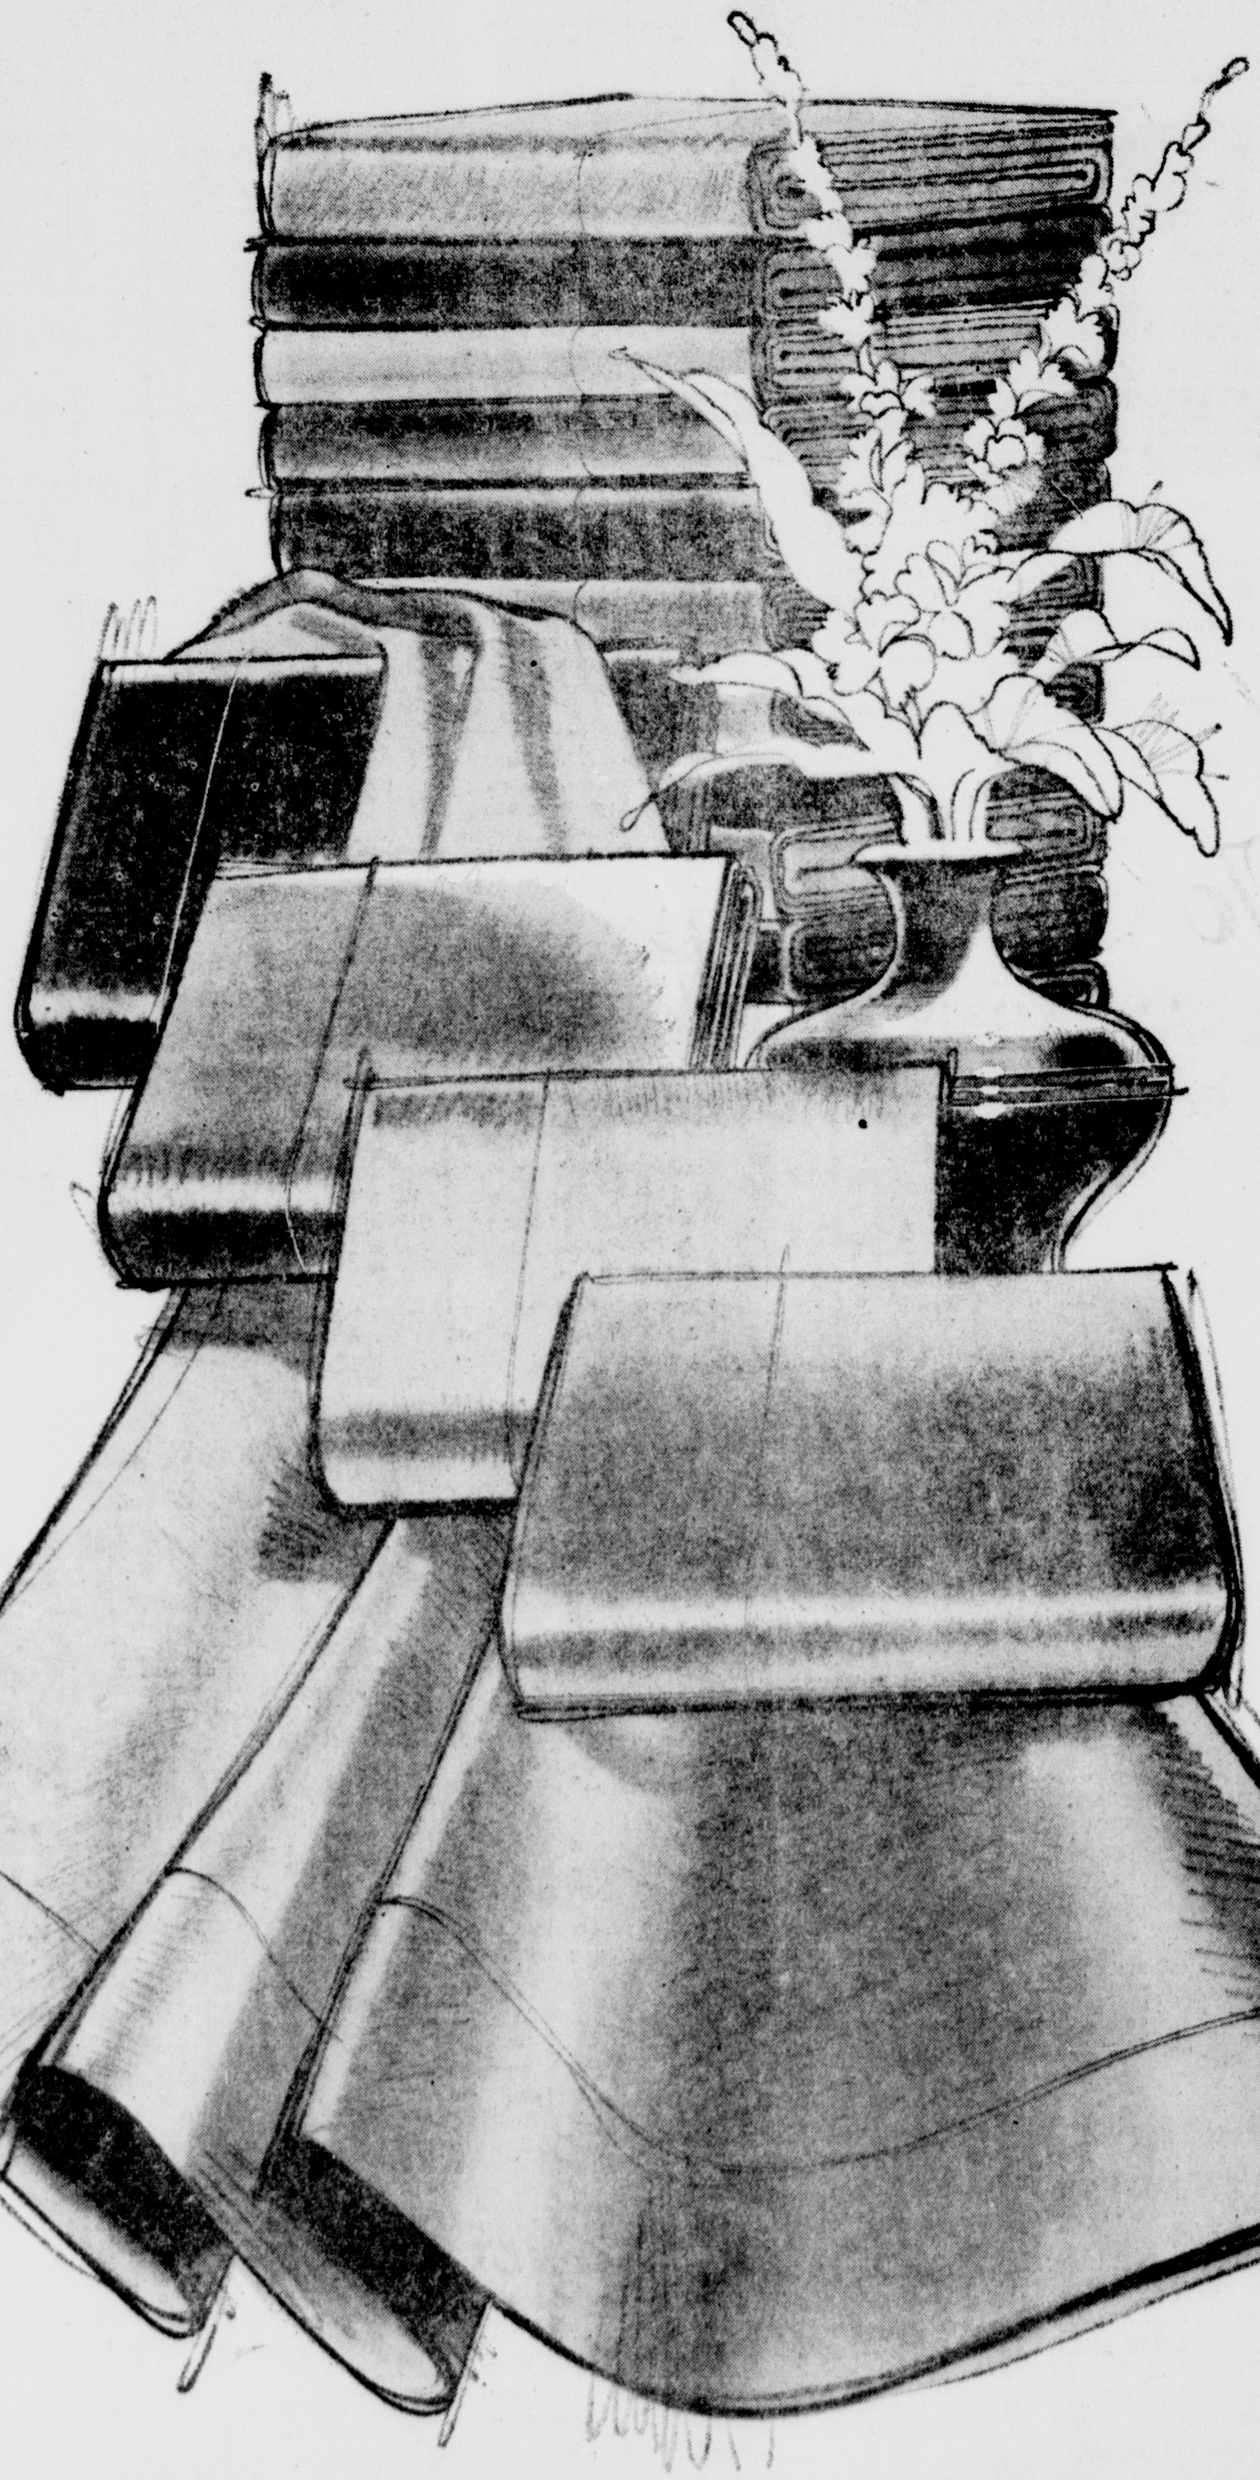

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger says there has been "some progress" toward a peaceful settlement of the Cyprus problem.

The report came in a Jan. 6 letter released Sunday at the request of Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., chairman of the Senate subcommittee on refugees.

Kissinger wrote that negotiations had progressed markedly and that no more Congressional efforts were needed to get conciliatory gestures from Turkey.

"Fortunately, some progress has been made in recent weeks toward getting substantive negotiations under way," he wrote. "I had good talks in Brussels on Dec. 11-13 with the Greek and Turkish foreign ministers which led, in turn, to the resumption of discussions between the representatives of the two communities on Cyprus on Dec. 19."

CUP RUNNETH OVER— Don DeMars, manager of Ultra Systems Inc., of Newport Beach, returned to his office recently to find floor covered by 2,000 paper cups, each filled with water and stapled together. Russ bought it from U.S., but don't know what to do with it

MOSCOW (UPI) — Will the National Sanatorium Company please come forward.

The Soviet Union bought a machine from that otherwise unidentified company in the United States, but cannot figure out what it is supposed to do.

The newspaper Literaturnaya Gazeta said Wednesday the machine has now seen service in three Moscow fruit and vegetable stores.

But no one knows whether the machine was designed for cooling fruit, squeezing oranges of "perhaps for mixing cocktails," Literaturnaya Gazeta said. In fact, no one is really certain the machine belongs in a fruit and vegetable store at all.

It is now gathering dust in a city warehouse. Literaturnaya Gazeta said its only identification is a plaque on the back which says, "National Sanatorium Company — laboratory tests."

(The company is not listed in Standard and Poor's Register of Corporations.)

The newspaper said that with all the assembling and disassembling, together with transport from place to place, the mysterious machine has lost various parts.

According to Literaturnaya Gazeta, the machine was bought in the United States for scarce hard currency, but so far "it has not earned a kopeck."

The newspaper said purchase of the machine was an example of how the Soviet Union wastes some of the money it spends abroad.

"What is this machine and to whom does it belong?" it asked. "Who bought it and why?"

Another example of squandering and bad management was provided by a consignment of dry-cleaning equipment from East Germany.

"It is spending its second winter under snow," Literaturnaya Gazeta said "no one knows how old the equipment is or what it is for because the technical documentation is inside the boxes and they have yet to be opened."

The newspaper said a state laundering concern apparently bought the machinery, but could not install it because it ran out of cash to build the necessary cleaning stores.

It said that all this is "terribly bad management. It is a crime to waste hard currency like this."

2 gorillas a case for pornography

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Birds do it, bees do it, but Chris and Susie will have to be shown an X-rated movie before they can do it.

Chris and Susie are gorillas who have never been around other gorillas and thus don't know what to do to mate, Sacramento Zoo Director Bill Meeker said Tuesday.

So, the zoo obtained an "educational film" from a zoo in Switzerland in hopes that showing it to Chris and Susie will "stimulate them" and return the jungle instinct to their sex lives.

The 25-minute film, Meeker said, features group activities of a bunch of gorillas leading up to mating and the actual mating.

"We hope that through observation they (Chris and Susie) will learn there is something they have to do and have the urge to do it,"

Report Rocky's satisfied in 'second fiddle' role

WASHINGTON (UPI) — In the Old Executive Office Building next to the White House, an aide to Nelson A. Rockefeller leans forward in a tan leather chair and presses his fingers together, straining to recall the vice president's words.

The aide shuts his eyes and quotes Gerald R. Ford's vice president as saying, "Ten years ago I couldn't have done it. I had that burning ambition to be president. Now I just want to do a good job for Jerry."

This is one reason senior aides and friends say relations between Ford and Rockefeller are as good as they seem to be.

A Rockefeller aide says his chief would be happy to be Ford's running mate in the 1976 presidential election.

"If Ford wants him as his vice presidential candidate in '76, if things have gone OK, Rockefeller would go and take it," the aide said.

Will Rockefeller be forever content to let Ford play first fiddle? "Nelson has made it clear that if he disagrees strongly enough, he will come out publicly and say so," the aide said.

"Look, Nelson tried three times for the presidency. He got boned by his own party (convention). He's also 66 years old," said the senior adviser to Rockefeller.

In the White House a senior adviser to the President makes a face when a visitor cites recent newspaper columns saying Donald Rumsfeld, Ford's chief of staff, has formed a guard around the Oval Office to protect the President from Rockefeller's ambitions.

"No. Not true," says the Ford adviser. "You know what Don said the other day? He said, 'If I was a betting man, I would bet these two men — Ford and Rockefeller —will make it work.'"

"It" is a unique relation ship perhaps.

Ford publicly refers to Rockefeller as his "partner." He ordered that his vice president be the one person who needs no appointment to enter the Oval Office. The President ordered that Rockefeller be in every "major meeting" in the White House.

"You know," a Rockefeller aide said with pride and perhaps a little awe, "Ford ordered his staff to treat us as part of them. The barriers are down."

"Ford is an unusual man. He has no hangups, no vanities about the Rockefeller juggernaut coming down here from New York," the vice presidential assistant said.

"Like during the time before Nelson was confirmed. (Senate Republican Minority Leader) Hugh Scott advised Nelson to say nothing on political issues until he was confirmed. It would perhaps embarrass the President as well as his confirmation chances.

"Well, Rockefeller tried. But he's been in public life a long time and he spoke out a couple of times. Did he hear from Ford? No, he did not.

"In fact, it was Nelson who phoned Ford and said he hoped he hadn't done wrong. And the President said not to worry about it."

According to friends, the two men enjoy an easy relationship.

This closeness contrasts with much of recent vice presidential history.

John Nance Garner, after serving eight years as Franklin D. Roosevelt's vice president, judged the office "not worth a bucket of warm spit." Harry S. Truman said later that, as FDR's vice president, he was kept in ignorance of public affairs by his chief.

Dwight D. Eisenhower, asked as President to name a policy contribution by his vice president, Richard M. Nixon, said he could not think of one. Nixon, as president, privately cited having Spiro Agnew as vice president as a reason people should have been pleased to have him remain as chief executive.

Unannounced to the public, Ford and his wife have broken presidential public protocol (which dictates a chief executive does not go to dine with others but that they come to him) and driven out to the Rockefeller house in Washington's Foxhall Road for a private dinner, according to a vice presidential aide.

It is perhaps more a testiment to the honeymoon state of their political marriage than to any personal bond.

Grandma Finds a Gold Mine— in Plates!

NORTHBROOK, Ill. — A successful art dealer in this Chicago suburb has announced a new, easy way to start collecting rare porcelain plates with high resale potential.

According to Thomas Gilmore II, president of this dealership, one grandmother of modest means bought one exceptional plate for $25 in 1965 that now sells for $1,050, and purchased another at $10 in 1969 that now brings $245.

Mr. Gilmore says, "Since many plates do not increase in value, amateurs often make serious mistakes." He offers a free report on what to look for, when to buy, what to pay and much more. It even includes special offers on eagerly-sought collector plates at modest cost.

To get your free report with no obligation, just send your name, address, and zip code to Bradford Galleries, 145 C Bradford Place, Northbrook, Illinois 60062. A postcard will do. Because of limited quantities, please mail your request before February 1, 1975.

Sues dentist; wrong tooth

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI) — James Asparro filed suit here Wednesday against Dr.Peter Werner, an oral surgeon, contending Werner pulled the wrong tooth.

Asparro charges Werner pulled his upper left second molar instead of another tooth which Asparro wanted pulled.

He asks $10,000 damages, $25,000 punitive damages and $320 dental expenses.

3 students prove it

Stranded in forest not one-way ticket to death

MOUNT PLEASANT, Mich. (UPI) — Three college students survived on boiled spiders, insects and wintergreen berry tea for 12 days in the rugged north woods of Michigan to prove a point.

They wanted to show that getting lost or stranded in the forest is not a one-way path to death.

"We tried to simulate as closely as possible the situation of someone who is lost in the woods," James Peacock, 30, leader of the expedition, said.

Peacock, along with fellow Central Michigan University students Steve House, 19, and Greg Szyperski, 26, spent almost two weeks in the Houghton Lake State Forest near Roscommon, Mich.

They emerged from the woods last week, weary and thinner than when they entered Dec. 29, but hoping the data they collected will help save the lives of others in the future.

"It's good to be getting out of here," admitted House, who lost 25 pounds.

"When a person first realizes that he is lost," Peacock said, "he must sit down and plan how he can make it until the next morning.

"You can die in the woods in one night and you can die in 40 degree temperatures."

The three agreed mind control is probably the most essential factor in coming out of the woods alive.

"The first emotion that usually hits a stranded person is panic," Peacock said. "That person has got to realize that he is lost, that there is no sense in trying to get out and that he's got better things to do than brood about his wife or relatives."

Peacock said once the person realizes that he is stranded, he must immediately set about finding a location to build a fire and "get as many things done before dark as possible."

He said fear of the woods and animals often traps the stranded victim into immobility.

"I am more afraid of another human in the woods than any kind of animal it holds," During the expedition, the three trapped 14 rabbits, one squirrel, one shrew, and caught spiders and insects which they boiled for food.

They made tea from the wintergreen berries and boiled aspen cambium, the layer underneath the bark of a tree that is full of nutrients.

The temperature dipped to zero nearly every night.

They kept a daily log and Peacock will write a report for the state Department of Natural Resources to explain the expedition.

But economic situation sparks arson increase

Fire losses slashed 50 per cent in '74

By PHYLLIS CANNON
P-B Staff Writer

Proficient work by firemen, quick, aggressive response by citizens and a crackdown on arsonists resulted in a nearly 50 per cent drop in fire loss in Pomona during 1974 compared to 1973.

Fire Chief John M. Fowlkes said that while there were actually more fire calls in 1974 than there were in 1973 the dollar loss dropped to $483,920 from $917,329.

Fowlkes said there were 17 arson arrests and prosecutions in Pomona in 1974, a "fantastic" record for a city this size.

"People know we really make an effort to apprehend arsonists," said the chief. "And from the records, it looks like they're going someplace else."

That feeling of being on top of the situation for 1974 has not lulled Fowlkes into a false sense of security for 1975.

"We anticipate in 1975 an increase in fires of incendiary nature (set by human hands) and it is tied directly to the economic situation," said Fowlkes.

"People are unemployed. They're feeling the pinch. This is when we have some large fires. In a recession or depression there always are people who sell out to the insurance company. That is what it amounts to, "If there is a depression, there is a trend. You can look for more arson fires."

Pomona's arson loss in 1973 was about $500,000. In 1974 it was about $280,000.

Only one person died in fire in Pomona in 1974, an elderly rest home patient whose clothing caught fire. Eighty-nine persons were hurt.

Pomona Fire Department has been commended by Liberty Mutual Insurance Co. for its prevention efforts — largely weed abatement — in the Garnesha Hills where home losses reached $1 million after arsonists torched tall weeds the fall of 1970.

The city's record arson occurred in 1956 when the old Pomona High School building on Holt Avenue was destroyed. Loss was $2 million.

There were 1,475 actual fires in 1974, 890 were incendiary. These figures include as incendiary fires set by children playing with matches, grass and trash fires and all fires set either accidentally or on purpose.

"To continue the fight against arson," said Fowlkes, "citizens must be the eyes and ears of the community. It would help us if, when they see or hear something suspicious, they would call us at 620-2219 and talk with our investigation people."

Pomona now has two fulltime men working arson in cooperation with the fire prevention bureau.

Fowlkes said another thing that helped keep fire loss down in 1974 was uniform codes and fire safety regulations, extending from national to city levels.

The most significant statistical increase in 1974, Fowlkes said, was in false alarms.

There were 360 in 1973; 474 in 1974, 54 in the month of November.

It costs the city approximately $250 to make a run on a false alarm, more in a high value or commercial area because more equipment is sent.

"This is lost time," said the chief. "Our response distance is lengthened, should there be a real emergency, and that could cost a life."

Turning in a false alarm is a misdemeanor.

Arson, the willful destruction of a structure, or the illegal burning of personal property valued at $25 or more, are felonies. A convicted arsonist may be sentenced to 2 to 20 years in prison.

"Sixty-one percent of Pomona's fires are reported as being incendiary in nature," said Fowlkes. "In addition to the 17 arrested for arson, many more cases were solved in 1974, and the responsible persons, mostly juveniles or mentally retarded individuals, were handled by Juvenile Court."

Fowlkes said the most common fuel used by arsonists is gasoline because it is most accessible.

Records show that juveniles usually start fires in trash bins or grass while adults usually start spite or grudge fires, usually involving structures or vehicles.

Adults also start, or hire someone else to start, fraud fires, mainly for insurance purposes. These, Fowlkes said, involve dwellings, vehicles or failing businesses.

"An arsonist is a potential killer," said Fowlkes. "It is impossible to describe the typical arsonist. They are to be found in all walks of life, among all classes in all races."

Arsonists usually fall under one of six classifications:

Those who set fire for economic gain to themselves. Those who set fire for someone else's economic benefit. Those who seek personal satisfaction such as spite, revenge or sabotage. Those who resort to arson to conceal a criminal act. Those who are mentally affected and enjoy watching things burn called pyromaniacs. And, the sex pyromaniac who obtains sexual satisfaction by starting or watching fires.

"It is the older pyromaniac who usually is motivated by a sex impulse," said Fowlkes. "Sometimes these impulses are not released unless the individual is under the influence of liquor or drugs. It is difficult for a normal person to understand the sex motive in setting fires, but such is the case and it rapidly can be proven by records."

Fowlkes said that the pyromaniac, though extremely dangerous, is not the greatest threat to society today in the area of arson.

"The individual setting grudge and spite fires, the love affairs and domestic strike problems, the paid torch, the revolutionary, the person who uses arson as a cover for burglary, the activist and the person who sets fires for financial gain have become the biggest problem to today's society in the field of incendiary or arson type fires," Fowlkes said.

Two suspects booked in Baldwin Hills slaying

Two Pomona men were booked today on suspicion of murder in a Los Angeles slaying which occurred Sunday evening.

They are Clifford Miles, 25, 2232 Academy Ave., and Charles Jones, 22, 2322 Canterbury Ave. A third man arrested with them, Don Talley, 22, 2224 Belinda Ave., was to be released to Pomona police today for investigation of a Pomona robbery.

The three were arrested shortly before 11 p.m. in an apartment at 1900 W. Orange Grove Ave. Twelve Pomona policemen and several Los Angeles officers seized the trio and reported finding a revolver in the toilet of the apartment.

Detective Sgt. James Grayson of the Los Angeles Police Department Wilshire division said the slaying occurred shortly after 7 p.m. in a home in the Baldwin Hills area. He gave this account: Andrew D. Thomas, 32, the victim, and his girlfriend were attending a small party when two men arrived. The host, who knew one of the two, admitted them and they all sat around talking and drinking. Suddenly, one of the two pulled a pistol and announced a robbery.

The victims were forced to lie on the floor, but Thomas, who was 6 feet 2 and weighed 220 pounds, began giving the robbers trouble. After one warning, he was shot in the head, execution style.

The two robbers fled with about $100, Grayson said.

Weatherman forecasts more of the same

Warm sunny weather continues for Southern Californians with temperatures expected near 85 today and Tuesday.

Although the high Sunday of 87 was not a record breaker, it was the fourth consecutive day of temperatures over the 80-degree mark.

The National Weather Service reported highs of 82 Friday, 85 Saturday, 87 Sunday and near 85 again today. The warm weather is accompanied by little or no smog.

Meanwhile, residents of the Midwest and East Coast have a contrasting weather picture. Snow spread a white blanket over the eastern Ohio Valley through northern and central Appalachia and into southern New England early today. Snow advisories went into effect for the Middle Atlantic region, including portions of New York, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Delaware, Maryland, Virginia and West Virginia.

Rain, thunder showers, threatening tornadoes and high winds plague the South, the plains and Colorado and Montana.

Carport fire

Sheriff's arson investigators are seeking the cause of a fire Saturday that gutted a six-vehicle carport at an apartment complex in San Dimas.

The blaze, which started at 3 p.m. at 301 N. San Dimas Canyon Road, caused damage estimated at $2,000. There were no autos in the carport, at the time.

Los Angeles County firemen extinguished the blaze in 10 minutes.

Traffic accidents injure 5

Five persons were injured in traffic accidents in the valley over the weekend.

Daniel L. Morales, 6, of 14778 Cherry Circle, Chino, was hurt when his bicycle was struck by a car on a curve on Peyton Drive south of Eucalyptus Avenue, Chino area, Sunday afternoon. He was reported in satisfactory condition at Chino General Hospital this morning.

Highway patrol officers said Sara A. Lopez, 18, of 125 W. Maple Ave., Ontario, lost control of her car on the turn, hit a highway marker and broadsided into the bicyclist.

Another youth on a bicycle was injured Sunday afternoon in a collision with a car on Foothill Boulevard east of Equation Road in Pomona.

Police said the victim, Daino Anthony Barnett, 13, 2990 Lublin St., Pomona, was riding on the wrong side of the street. He was released from Pomona Valley Community Hospital after treatment of head cuts.

The driver of the car was Vivienne B. Fenrenback, 57, 5003 Cadley Drive, La Verne.

Wendy Sue Morrison, 20, of Santa Cruz, and Karla Jo Clark, 24, of 11712 Monte Vista Ave., Chino, were injured slightly when their cars collided Sunday morning on Foothill Boulevard west of Benson Avenue, Upland area.

Federal community development funds

Final meeting for project priorities

A public workshop will be held Tuesday at 8:30 p.m. in the Pomona City Council Chambers to discuss the proposed uses of $2.8 million in federal community development funds.

At the meeting, the Pomona staff will present its revised recommendations for the three-year program.

The meeting will be the second and final workshop to consider the spending plan.

The revised recommendations include public input from a previous meeting held in December and the suggestions of a special advisory committee formed two weeks ago.

Top items in the plan include $630,000 for the Community Development Department Budget, $500,000 for city beautification and landscaping, and approximately $100,000 each for a police helicopter facility, the development of a fire station near Pacific State Hospital, and a multi-purpose facility for mental health, substance abuse, juvenile diversion and other related projects.

Centennial group seeks city motto and flag

The Pomona Centennial Committee will be accepting entries through Jan. 31 for the design of a city motto and city flag.

The two contests are open to all interested persons who live or work in Pomona, with the winner in each contest to receive a $100 savings bond and a silver Pomona medallion.

In addition, each of the top six winners in each category will receive a medallion.

Finalists in the contest will be selected by Feb. 28, with winners to be announced March 10.

When selected, the motto and flag will become the permanent official designations for the city.

Criteria for the motto are brevity, applicability, optimism and timelessness.

Criteria for the flag are simplicity of design and color, and symbolism appropriate for the city.

Entries may be delivered to David Streeter at the Pomona Public Library, or mailed to P.O. Box 2271, Pomona 91766.

THE ART OF PLAY

Brandon Myers, Andrew Jared and Jenny Kimball, from left, play in corn meal at the texture table of Pomona Community Nursery School. The school at 951 E. Philadelphia St. will hold open house Tuesday through Friday from 9:30 to 11 a.m. Youngsters and their parents are welcome.

High speed chase ends with suspect captured

A high speed chase through Ontario and Upland early this morning ended in the arrest of Daniel Gilman Forness, 21, of 5441 N. Edenfield St., Covina, on charges of reckless driving and auto theft.

California Highway Patrol officer Carlos Cruz reported seeing a car driving without lights on the San Bernardino Freeway near Fourth Street, Ontario, at 4:50 a.m. He went after the car with a red light and siren on, but the vehicle fled at speeds of 75 to 80 miles an hour.

The pursuit went on for several miles through Ontario and Upland with the fugitive running through numerous stop signs and red lights. It ended when the car struck a curb and bounded onto the lawn of a residence on Laurel Avenue near 16th Street in Upland. The driver, later identified as Forness, leaped from the car and ran off into the housing tract with Cruz in pursuit. After leaping over several fences, the officer found Forness hiding behind a car. His passenger escaped. Forness' car was found to have been stolen.

Police follow slim leads in fatal shooting

El Monte detectives today are investigating slim leads into the fatal shooting of an Ontario man early Saturday morning in a parking lot of a service station at Asher and Santa Anita avenues.

Albert Anthony Macri, 20, of 627 Hawthorne St., Ontario, was shot with a .22 caliber bullet about 2 a.m. as he and a friend were standing in the lot.

Five youths reportedly accosted them, began arguing, and a single shot was fired. The youths fled.

Macri was taken to Baldwin Park Community Hospital where he was pronounced dead on arrival.

El Monte detectives say no immediate arrests are imminent in the case. Sheriff's detectives who responded to the shooting are assisting the El Monte police in the investigation.

Owners controlled their dogs better in '74

Claremont dog owners have adopted better control measures over their pets the past year in the face of higher redemption fees of impounded dogs, the Humane Society of Pomona Valley Inc. has reported.

In December 1973 the City Council had approved increasing the dog impoundment fees from $6 a dog to $15 a dog for the first offense and $25 a dog for the second offense.

In 1973 the humane society received 106 calls from citizens complaining about stray dogs. In 1974 the number of complaints had dipped to 51.

In 1973 the number of dogs impounded more than once at the $6 fee totaled 33, but the number impounded more than once at the new $25 fee in 1974 was only five.

Dogs impounded by the humane society in 1973 totaled 562, while 204 were redeemed by their owners.

Last year the society impounded 494 dogs, with owners redeeming 245.

Nursery classes develop toddlers before school

Pomona Community Nursery School will hold open house Tuesday through Friday from 9:30 to 11 a.m.

The school is located at 951 E. Philadelphia St., Pomona and is a non-profit, parent cooperative that is sponsored by the Adult Education Department of Pomona Unified School District.

The school program is guided by the principle that a well-balanced preschool experience provides the child with increased skills and the opportunity to develop physical and mental aptitudes at his own pace. All activities are supervised.

Parents assist the teacher in the daily program by working once a week. This doubly enables parents to become more aware of the physical skills and emotional needs of their children, and the school to provide low tuitions. Parents also attend an adult education meeting each month.

The two-day program is offered Tuesdays and Thursday from 9 to 11:15 a.m. for children two years nine months to three years nine months at $11 per month. The three-day program is available Monday, Wednesday and Friday from 9 to 11:30 a.m. for children three years nine months to kindergarten at $15 per month. A nursery is available for younger children while parents work at the school.

Mrs. Cecil Harris is the full-time teacher-director.

During the open house, visiting children will be encouraged to sample activities at the playhouse, sandbox, water table, tricycle area, work bench and the two classrooms used for art, music, puppets, puzzles, literature and science.

Persons wishing additional information may call Cheryl Myers, 623-7427, or Beverly Woodell, 629-7647.

EDITORIAL

Opinion

Revenue or debt sharing?

A great many people sincerely believe that that the federal revenue sharing program is a real service to the states. Kirk West, executive vice president of the California Taxpayers' Association, is not one of them.

In a letter to the federal Office of Management and Budget, West proposed that the program be terminated as one step in balancing the federal budget and fighting inflation. He labelled it inflationary, and argued that "government should be holding back on spending programs rather than borrowing funds to encourage increased government spending at the state and local level."

"Revenue sharing," West wrote, "could more accurately be called debt sharing, since the federal budget is unbalanced."

The Cal-Tax executive pointed out that there is "very little accountability or review for the use of these funds. Many local and state jurisdictions are now using revenue sharing to finance ongoing programs rather than nonrecurring capital projects. When revenue sharing terminates, tax increases at the state and local level will be required to fund these programs."

Significantly, in this context, in his final Annual Report of Budget Requirements and Means of Financing Adopted by California Counties, outgoing State Controller Houston I. Flournoy said that the total budget requirements of California counties for 1974-1975 are less than one-half of one percent greater than in 1973-1974. Seventeen counties are operating on smaller budgets this year than last.

Cal-Tax's West recognizes that while termination of revenue sharing would "cause some problems for California state and local governments", it is sounder fiscal policy to make those responsible for imposing a tax responsible also by spending tax revenues. As he said, "Money raised by others, such as revenue sharing funds, are not spent at scrupulously by local officials as funds which they must raise themselves through local taxes."

U.S. and terror

Terrorism—not the ballot, the speech, the pamphlet—has become the political weapon of the day.

Terrorists have been honored by the United Nations, and given positions of influence. They have forced indignities and death upon the American public. They make the innocent bystander the tool of their savage extremism, their hatred of society.

Most Americans abhor terrorism. But not all, it seems.

Nowhere is terrorism bloodier, more insensate, more ruthless and skillfully used than in Ireland. The Palestinian Liberation Organization should go learn from the Irish Republican Army.

Last year, according to a Newsweek survey, there had been 3,000 bombing incidents in Northern Ireland alone—an average of 67 a week, almost 10 a day.

An interview with Northern Ireland and British ordnance experts revealed that although the bombs are manufactured in many places, from many substances, including grated cheese, most of them are smuggled across the border from the Irish Republic.

Shamefully, some of the material and much of the money that pays for it comes from the United States. As the British bomb squad commander—who has seen 13 of his men killed defusing bombs—commented: "I wish that the misguided people in America who contribute to money to the IRA could see what effect their donations sometimes have."

"Misguided" is a kind word. The contributors are subsidizing murder. No matter where, in the tragic Irish dispute, one' sympathy may lie, it must be a wrench to the conscience to learn what one's contribution too often produces.

'75, meet '30

If you are an old-calendar buff, or just a calendar-non-thrower-awayer you may not need to buy this year's model.

Day for day it's the same as that of 1930.

1975 started n a Wednesday, ends on a Wednesday. So did 1930. July 4 repeats as a Friday. Anyone born in 1930 will celebrate his or her birthday on the same day of the week he or she was born.

Let's just hope that 1975, with its inflation-recession-depression-unemployment doesn't follow 1930 quite so closely in the economic area.

Thoughts for today

"For every one will be salted with fire. Salt is good but if the salt has lost its saltiness, how will you season it? Have salt in yourselves, and be at peace with one another." — Mark 9:49,50.

"You must not lose faith in humanity. Humanity is an ocean; if a few drops of the ocean are dirty, the ocean does not become dirty." — Mohandas K. Gandhi, Spiritual leader of India.

Navy's 'copter carriers in sad shape

WASHINGTON — Here is the second in the two-part report, based on secret Navy documents, on the shocking deterioration of the helicopter carrier fleet.

The Navy's seven helicopter carriers are supposed to deliver Marine assault troops in case they should be needed in an emergency, say, in the Middle East. Although they cost millions and are still comparatively modern, they have been permitted to fall into such disrepair that they no longer are safe.

Secret surveys by the Navy's top inspector, Rear Adm. John Bulkeley, warn that the carriers could become death traps for the Navy crewmen and Marine flighting men who sail in them.

Fire is the terror of the sea, both in war and peace. Yet on board the USS Okinawa, Bulkeley found that "the fire doors between the hangar deck and the vehicle storage area will not close fully."

The pipes carrying highly inflamamable fuel are "routed through the ship's incinerator room" and "immediately adjacent to the welder's table." Failure of some conduits "would cause fuel oil to flood the fire room bilges," warns Bulkeley's secret report.

Boiler pipes are "soft patched" or "in an advance state of deterioration."

The most hideous danger in the ship is broken doors and missing rungs in an enclosed escape passageway. Supposedly the enclosure would permit the crew to flee a fire. Actually the broken doors and missing rungs not only would impede their escape but would permit the fire to enflame them and bake them alive as if they were in a long metal oven.

In case of combat, every man aboard would be in danger from the wretched maintenance. "The storage of whole blood for the treatment of casualties," states the report, "is severely limited due to vibrations."

The racks for jettisoning bombs are so poorly designed that there is nothing "to prevent personnel from accidentally sliding overboard."

The communications antennae are "unsatisfactory." The navigation warning lights are so poorly arranged that a 60 degree "blind spot" exists on the ship's port side for ships approaching the Okinawa at night.

Finally, if the carrier should start sinking, the sailors and Marines would have no means to save themselves. "All the ship's lifelines, liferails and liferings," the report charges, "are considered safety hazards."

What is true of the Okinawa, according to high Navy sources, is also largely true of the other six helicopter carriers.

Marlon Brando's media caper

Let's just say that Marlon Brando made them an offer they couldn't refuse.

I'm not talking about the small but much-publicized Indian group that furnished the supporting cast to the actor's land "gift" caper, either.

Rather, "them" refers to the TV networks and wire services taken in by one of the gaudiest (and least expensive) publicity stunts perpetrated through the national news media since that historical day four decades ago when a Ringling Brothers flack plopped a circus midget onto J.P. Morgan's lap.

That photo went round the world, just like the holiday week story of Brando's "deed" of a 40-acre California tract to Hank Adams's "Survival of American Indians Association."

Of course we expect such capers from circus flacks, just as we by now ought to be familiar with Marlon Brando's empty-headed exhibitionism on behalf of whatever political cause happens to strike his fancy between pictures.

As for the Indians in this case, it is of small moment that their Great White Godfather didn't really, as he purported, give his part of the country back to them.

The truth is, as the network newsmen and wire-service reporters who covered the pseudo-event must surely know, Adam's organization is first and foremost a self-exalting propaganda unit whose purpose is to promote the line that (1) American Indians are being exploited by an insensitive power establishment, etc., and (2) though bearing no credentials except his ability to attract cameras and newsmen, Adams is a "leader" of the Indian population.

Viewed in that light, we can forget the incidental discrepancy turned up regarding Brando's "gift"; that is, that the $200,000 tract of land he "deeded" his professional Indian friends happens to be burdened with a mortgage exceeding its market value.

For the actor actually gave them something far more valuable, in dollar-and-cent terms. If you doubt that, check the cost of three minutes' advertising-promotional time on all major network evening news, then throw in radio coverage and the prime space devoted to the caper in newspapers and magazines throughout the world.

No, if there's anything truly significant about what we saw on the tube and read in our papers regarding Marlon Brando's latest self-indulgent publicity caper, it's that we saw and read it at all, in the form it was created in. Only days after the story had been given global coverage did one lone station, KABC-TV of Los Angeles, belatedly think to check more deeply into the bona fides of the Brando "gift."

To put the matter in perspective, consider what, if anything, the world might have seen and read had a major American corporation — you know, a member of that awful exploitative establishment — decided to give away a $200,000 tract to a worthy cause.

Even allowing that such a p.r. gesture by an establishment donor would attract media attention, no corporate president could have gone into his performance for the camera without newsmen pressing home questions about the status of the property, whether the gift would be written off for tax purposes, and what proportion of the donor's total wealth the gift represented.

Brando was asked none of these questions by his attendant newsmen. Indeed, how was it, a wayward pressman might inquire, that national news organizations, which ordinarily wear cynicism as a badge of honor, could tumble so easily for what, to call it by its proper name, was a phony publicity stunt?

The answer, I believe, has to do with Favored Causes and Sacred Cows. This year the cameras are onto the plight of the Indians. Next year, who knows?

All that's certain is that, whatever the cause, (1) its spokesmen will be shrill in their condemnation of an insensitive power establishment, etc., and (2) Marlon Brando will be somewhere nearby, within range of the news cameras, with Jane Fonda not too far behind.

U.S. jury system indicted

There were ominous overtones to that legal decision last month; Harry Dent was set free but our American jury system was indicted.

Harry Dent said, "I am a Republican, I am a white boy with a South Carolina accent. There is no way I could get a fair trial from a Washington, D.C., jury."

And in effect the judge agreed. So, though innocent, Harry Dent pleaded guilty. The first response by responsible blacks is to protest that a black jury would be just as fair as any, though most blacks have memories long enough to realize that, when and where the situation was reversed, a black defendant didn't have a prayer.

Now it's the white Southerner in the mostly black District of Columbia who could not depend on our "jury of peers" system for justice. What had Harry Dent not done?

As a White House aide, Southern political strategist for the Nixon campaign, he assisted in dispensing some $3 million in campaign funds to GOP candidates for Senate and House seats.

There is a federal statute providing that a political committee must have a designated chairman and treasurer, and to accept or dispense campaign money otherwise it is a misdemeanor.

Harry Dent is not accused of stealing anything or hurting anybody. He handled none of the campaign money.

Washington's best legal brains agreed that there was no wrongdoing. But they also agreed that Dent could be brought to trial on the "secrecy" technicality and that to face trial in Watergate-conscious Washington would be first-degree suicide.

Understand, Dent was in no way involved in Watergate or its ramifications. Indeed, he walked out on the Nixon administration to avoid involvement in what he saw developing.

But the lynch-mob atmosphere in D.C. is such that Dent had to plead guilty to a misdemeanor of which he was innocent or face a lengthy, costly trial and possible felony conviction.

Nor was any district judge willing to allow a change of venue. Dent had no choice but to face an inherently hostile jury.

U.S. Dist. Judge George Hart — accepting the guilty plea — acknowledged that Dent was himself an "innocent victim" of a faulty system.

He imposed no jail sentence, no fine. But the treasured American judicial system has been indicted for discrimination.

Just in jest

We pride ourselves on our much vaunted American know-how. We never let the rest of the world forget that when it comes to salesmanship we Americans are beyond all doubt the greatest. So it comes as something of a shock to learn that in our efforts to increase the per capita consumption of beer in this country we have fallen sadly behind the accomplishments of the Swedish brewers.

And for the life of me I can't understand how our advertising geniuses and supersalesmen could have overlooked the magic answer to increased sales which the Swedes are using so effectively. But this once, at least, our experts missed the golden sales gimmick. — In Sweden, beer cans are now being covered with pictures of nude women.

Wanted: A sense of symbolism

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — In his running fight against the British, Mohandas Gandhi would journey to the sea to extract a tiny amount of salt from the water.

Economically this was insignificant. Politically it was dynamite. Salt manufacture was a British monopoly and Gandhi thus was breaking the Empire's law.

In considerable measure, Gandhi succeeded in his war against England because he knew the value of symbolism and the dramatic gesture, whereby some small act takes on a deep meaning.

In their own way, a series of recent American presidents — whatever their other failings — have understood the political importance of such public deeds

President Ford does not.

Unfortunately, this decent and straightforward man has shown little ability to project faith and confidence in his programs aimed at curing the recession-inflation and at getting us out of the energy shortage in one piece.

In fact, Mr. Ford hasn't been able to convince many that he has a program.

Now this is a pity. For though the recession is real, as attested by the shocking unemployment figures just released, we can climb out of the economic morass we are in only by a change in spirit — by faith if you will.

Mr. Ford is right, I believe, that the government cannot cure the recession. Only we can. The dramatic presidential gesture all too often produces only a cosmetic effect, a 20th century Potemkin village with nothing behind the store fronts. For all his virtuosity, most of President Franklin Roosevelt's economic razzle-dazzle failed of its purpose. There is, in fact, a strong body of economic opinion which holds that his much-publicized economic solutions actually prolonged the depression of the 1930s for years beyond what would have been its normal life.

Mr. Ford, however, is wrong in not realizing we do need some kind of presidential leadership to give us confidence to plan for 1975, 1976, 1977 and beyond.

We need to believe Mr. Ford and his associates see what the problem is. From the confusion at the White House, Treasury, Commerce, Interior and assorted agencies, it is most difficult to believe that an understanding of the reality exists in high places.

Mr. Ford first featured a lengthy series of economic conferences at the White House and in assorted cities, with experts of all persuasions. Little of significance came of these meetings, except patches.

His energy men came out with a document ridiculed for its assumptions and projections by experts in the practical fields.

Testimony by the President's top aides give strong evidence of infighting and serious differences within the administration as to what should be done on energy, inflation, the recession and what the outcome of this plan or that will be. The differences are so great as to crumble our confidence in the economy and in the ability of this administration to deal with what comes — unless we grit our teeth and hold on tight to our inner faith.

What we want from a president, in summary, is a sense of direction, one which projects a certain stability, even if it means blood, sweat and tears. With this as a base, whether we are in full agreement or not, we can go about the business of recovery to the best of our abilities and resources, even if our individual contribution involves no more than driving at 50 miles an hour instead of 60.

There's no shortout to get minister credential

I am trying to get an interdenominational church built at the California Institution for Women in Chino.

In a magazine I saw an ad stating free ministerial credentials could be obtained at a church at Chula Vista.

I wrote to the church to try to obtain the credentials and legalize my right to the title of "Reverend" to add weight to my appeal for a church where none exists.

The church tried to charge me for the "free' credentials and then decided an inmate couldn't obtain them. This was even after seeing papers from the state Department of Corrections and state Sen. Jame R. Mills in regard to the church I am working toward.

I do want credentials free as I am putting a lot of money and effort into this project.

Help is being given by women's rights organizations on and off the grounds of CIW and by legislators and news media.

Who can I see to get the credentials?

We also need letters to legislators if some of your readers would be willing to write them. No donations are accepted here. — D.L., Chino

Your project has the support of the California Federation of Women's Clubs.

Allen Brown, associate superintendent of the California Institution for Women, tells us that at present only the chaplain's offices or the auditorium at the institution are available for services.

Our advice to you is to rely on your own worth as an individual in waging the campaign for a chapel.

Mrs. Audrey Lightbody, executive director of the Pomona Valley Council of Churches, points out that a bachelor's degree plus theological schooling are required by the principal denominations for ordination.

Ministerial credentials obtained from a church which may the only one of its kind probably would be valueless elsewhere.

I sent an order to Let's Dine Out in West Covina for two membership books, one for myself and the other for a friend.

My check was sent more than two months ago. My friend received her book but I didn't get mine.

When I called the office of Let's Dine Out, I was told that the book had been sent by messenger.

It still didn't arrive. I made a trip to West Covina and was told that because of a promotioinal silver dollar I was to receive, it had to be delivered by messenger service and the service was on strike.

I asked the woman in the office if she could just issue me another book and let me return the first one when I received it. It was told it could not be done that way.

The strike is over and I still don't have my book. — M.M., Chino.

In answer to our inquiry, we received a copy of an apology addressed to you by Let's Dine Out.

George E. Mihalka, assistant national general manager, explained that the firm's records showed you had been sent your membership book by United Parcel Service.

He and his associates, he indicated, were under the impression that you had received it when the strike was settled.

He authorized a duplicate membership and another Eisenhower dollar and enclosed it with the letter.

ANN LANDERS

Learn most important words from 1 to 6: (least important of them is "I")

Dear Ann Landers: Two years ago, I took a short course in human relations. Last night I went through some old notebooks and found this "lesson" which has been invaluable to me. I would like to share it with others. — Better For It In Massapequa

The six most important words in the English language: I admit I made a mistake.

The five most important words: You did a good job.

The four most important words: What is your opinion?

The three most important words: If you please.

The two most important words: Thank you.

The one most important word: We.

The least important word: I.

—Anonymous

Dear Mass: Thank you. You did a good job. We appreciate your sharing. (I used EIGHT of the most important words right here — also the LEAST important.)

Dear Ann Landers: This letter is in regard to "Urgent and Waiting," the family whose young relative was diagnosed as having a brain tumor. Though my brain tumor was benign, surgery was necessary because of its location, size and rapid growth.

My neurosurgeon was very skilled and the operation was a complete success. I was warned that I would probably be blind in one eye, but I was very lucky. My vision in both eyes is nearly perfect.

Now, at age 18, I am in excellent health. The only reminder of that tumor is a thin scar and some pills I must take daily for a thyroid deficiency.

When I first learned of the tumor, I was scared to death, and so was my family, but our faith in God — and a wonderful surgeon— kept us strong.

Thank you, Ann, for telling your readers that "a brain tumor need not be a death sentence." I am living proof and there are thousands more like me. — Alive And Well

Dear A and W: Thank you for the heartening testimonial. I received some letters from readers who had malignant brain tumors removed and made it. So, the work from here is, "Have faith — and a good doctor."

Dear Ann Landers: After 20 years of marriage and six kids, my husband decided he'd rather have a younger woman. We divorced nine months ago and he says he loves the children but he refuses to take them even for one night. (He and the younger woman are living together but not married.)

I want to entertain a male friend of whom I have become very fond, but there is absolutely no privacy around here.

My bedroom is the only possibility. It has a TV, stereo — and bed. Would it be decent, nine months after their father left, to entertain a man in my bedroom?

Does being single and raising children mean I have to give up EVERYTHING? — Cheated

Dear Cheated: If your husband says he loves the kids he'd better start proving it by taking them for weekends (sans girlfriend until they marry if they do) — and on holidays. This would not only make them feel less abandoned but prevent total estrangement which would prove very painful for him in years to come. It would also provide the relief and periodic freedom to which you are certainly entitled.

Confidential to Miss Know-Nothing: I don't believe his put-downs are legit. Even a clock that isn't working is right twice a day.

You may already have won world

By JOSEPH H. FIRMAN

I suppose in times like these when the rest of you are deeply mired in a DEPRESSION, (or cyclical economic readjustment, as Mr. Ford terms it) it ill becomes me to gloat, but the fact is this morning I became wealthy beyond the dreams of avarice. I won the $10 billion GRAND PRIZE in the 26th annual Circulation Promotion Contest of the Bleeder's Digress, the 19th Century's answer to Poor Richard's Almanac.

I don't know whether to buy Iraq or Sophia Loren.

There must be something seriously wrong with the little magazine when it must deal out Fort Knox to win a few new subscribers. I got this fancy engraved certificate practically promising me fortune, if not fame, if I sent in the six numbers — and a subscription. The document was spruced up with Gothic type, computer numbers and intricate engravings, twice as colorful as my certificate for shares of AT & T.

And the prizes, gosh! Second prize is India. Third prize is $10,000 a day for the rest of your life, or $10,000 cash, which ever comes first. Fourth prize is your choice of any two emerging nations, or Paul Newman. There are 12,744 fifth prizes consisting of a yacht, 500 Elvis Presley records and a year's supply of cat food, whichever comes first. I mean, you can't lose!

And the list of awards runs on like a Brooklyn telephone book, every prize worth a king's ransom, or at least a subscription to Bleeder's Digress. The 786th prize is the Hope diamond —it just shows you.

I must admit I was appalled at this squirrely little magazine sending me my glittering stock certificate in the plain old every-day first class mail. It should have come by armored car. I mean, what of gangsters, hijackers, the Mafia, the IRS?

Naturally I took instant precautions. Dispatching the wife and kids to a nearby motel, I barricaded the doors, turned out the lights, and huddled on the upstairs landing, ready to shoot it out with my son's Daisy air rifle. I memorized my six OFFICIAL SWEEPSTAKES NUMBERS and prepared to devour the GRAND PRIZE CERTIFICATE if taken alive!

By the time you read this, the danger of the great robbery will have passed. My SIX SECRET NUMBERS are tucked away in a certain bank's safe deposit box, and a sealed envelope containing the pertinent facts of the case is in the hands of the district attorney, to be opened in case of my mysterious disappearance.

Meanwhile, I have written to the Bleeder's Digress to leave the money in a valise (small, unmarked bills) in the oak tree in Memorial Park late at night. I've seen Kojak often enough to know my rights in a magazine subscription drive.

Maybe I'll buy Howard Hughes and give him his freedom.

DOCTOR COMMENTS

Age softens the bones--women first

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I would appreciate anything you can tell me about osteoporosis of the spine. I was told I have it and that I can never work again. Also not to bend forward.

Then I read in a paper that exercises of some form should be done. I am taking calcium pills, but the healing process is very slow.

Could you also tell me how long it takes to get over it and if the hot sun has anything to do with it. I am in pain most of the time. Am in my late 60s.

DEAR READER — Osteoporosis is softening of the bones. The vertebra may collapse or break as bone is lost. The mild form is the woman with the dowager hump. It starts after the menopause in many women and about 20 years later in men. It is five times as common in women who are on a calcium-deficient diet. That is the big reason I always suggest that women get the equivalent of one quart of milk a day in their diet.

The pain is caused from the pressure on nerves associated with degeneration of the vertebra or actual collapse of one or more vertebra. Incidentally, the hot sun has nothing to do with it.

There are many different opinions about how to treat this problem. That usually means none of the measures recommended is too successful.

One reader wrote to me about his mother who had severe pain and did not respond to diet and increased calcium. He stated that she improved dramatically when calcium was given by vein (if your doctor is interested in the reference, it is American Journal of Medicine, July, 1969, page 7, by Dr. Frederic C. Bartter).

Drs. Jenifer Jousey and Lawrence Riggs at the Mayo Clinic claim on the basis of their research that a combination of fluoride (the same substance as the dentists recommend for teeth), calcium and vitamin D is the only treatment method that offers a chance of completely stopping or curing the condition. (Postgraduate Medicine, October 1962).

Meanwhile, two British physicians, Drs. Gallagher and Nordin, claim that giving the female hormone estrogen at the time of menopause or when the ovaries are removed surgically prevents the problem. Jousey and Riggs say that female hormones at best only arrest and usually only slow the bone loss.

Still another report is from Dr. Roy Beauchene and co-workers at the University of Tennessee. Their studies showed that fluoride alone improved the bone and helped to restore bone calcium better than treatment with calcium, phosphorous, vitamin D and supplemental vitamins alone or in combination with fluoride.

Exercises sometimes do help if they are the proper ones designed to strengthen the muscles between the shoulder blades and along the back. The idea is to keep the spine that supports your chest cage from collapsing.

I think you can see from these problems that it is important to have a doctor evaluate your individual case and help you in a program to prevent any further progression of your disease. This usually involves diet, medicine and a proper type of exercise program for appropriate cases.

Send your questions to Dr. Lamb, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019. For a copy of Dr. Lamb's booklet on balanced diet, send 50 cents to the same address and ask for the "Balanced Diet" booklet.

Brothers and sisters used to marry

A brother and sister married each other. Among their children, a brother and sister married. Among theirs, another brother and sister married. This sort of thing was a common practice in a lot of societies years ago. Cleopatra, for instance, was the offspring of six generations of such incest.

DIAMOND dust is black.

DID I TELL you that tree known as the Douglas fir is not really a fir tree?

NOT WIDELY KNOWN is the fact that the famous steamboat builder Robert Fulton made so much money painting portraits in his teens that he was able to buy a farm for his mother.

Q. "Why do we call the 'mafia' that?"

A. Comes from the Arabic word "maehfil" meaning "union."

CAN THINK of no tax in history more ridiculous than the "teeth money" tax levied in Turkey 250 years ago. When a pasha visited a peasant family, he customarily ate a free meal. Afterwards, he collected a tax to compensate him for the wear on his teeth.

OFFICIALS in the French government in the days of Voltaire set up a national lottery. But they weren't much good at math. They miscalculated. Voltaire, however, was indeed good at math. He put together a syndicate and bought up every ticket. His take of the winnings made him financially independent. It was only then he found time to write. Remember that, young fellow. If you want to be a writer, do your arithmetic.

HIP POCKETS

Hip pockets on trousers were outlawed years ago in South Carolina. Notion was too many of them hid whiskey flasks.

IF YOU'RE over 45, you can figure the chances are one in four you'll wind up within the next 12 months on some kind of diet.

WHO REMEMBERS Lana Turner? Numerous fraternity brothers, certainly. In her sweater-girl days, she was named the sweetheart of 38 different college fraternities. No other actress before or since has been so honored.

For Tuesday, Jan. 21, 1975

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Conduct your more serious business affairs before evening. After dark you're much too playful to be sharp commercially.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Be modest about your accomplishments; let others mention them. Blow your own horn and you'll only get a shallow sound.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Keep your attention focused on your more ambitious interests. Luck will fill in some gaps that muscles can't CANCER (June 21-July 22) You'll be fortunate today in dealings with prestigious contacts, if you don't try to mix business with pleasure.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Disassociate temporarily from allies whose aims don't jibe with yours. Success will come if you're singular about your goals.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Large issues you'll handle in stride. Petty matters will call for some aspirin, especially if co-workers are involved.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) You'll come off well today in transactions conducted along practical lines. Speculative ventures won't be so rewarding.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) It will be easier for you today to please outsiders than family members, no matter how hard you try.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You are able now, if you apply yourself, to expand small advantages careerwise into something very worthwhile.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Be selective in your choice of companions. Shun persons who you suspect may want something from you materially.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Regarding purchases you make for the home now, durability and quality should take precedent over price and fads.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) You'll be receiving good news. It will require time to be fully appreciated. Don't let negative thoughts make less of it than it is.

Your Birthday Jan. 21, 1975

Your financial prospects will be brighter this year than last, but you'll still have to work for what you get. Build solidly upon each opportunity as it arises.

Ask Dr. Brothers

The contradiction

By DR. JOYCE BROTHERS

DEAR DR. BROTHERS: It may seem surprising for someone who considers herself a modern, liberated woman to write this letter, but I might as well face it and my problem, so here goes. I'm 29 and I feel I must get married. Here's the contradiction: Part of me thinks marriage is idiotic, old-fashioned and unnecessary; the other part is desperate to put on a wedding ring. I want so much to marry my boyfriend, I find that I'm constantly trying to please him in ways that are, in a sense, deceptive. I know he doesn't really admire brainy women so I pretend that I don't know things when I do just to make him feel secure and important. He likes the sexy type of ultrafeminine woman and I don't know how sexy I am to him, but I'm certainly not ultrafeminine in the way he imagines.

Though I'm sexually liberated, I don't believe in sleeping around and I haven't. I enjoy him sexually, but secretly I guess I resent having to play the game to get him to marry me. By this, I mean even reacting differently in bed than I would if I felt really free and me—not just some imaginary ultrafemale woman.—S.M.

DEAR S.M.: One essential for happiness and fulfillment in any marriage or in any relationship is that each partner be allowed to be himself or herself. By not relaxing and allowing yourself the freedom of expression you need to develop your own potential as a person, you're cheating yourself and you're also cheating your partner. If this man is going to feel threatened every time you disagree with him, or every time you deomonstrate you have certain kowledge in an area where he is weak, then he probably isn't the man you wish to marry.

On the other hand, you may be misjudging him. Certainly, by not being honest you are preventing him from possible growth. He might not react the way you image. You might be able to ressure him in other ways so that you and he might grow together and learn to accept and appreciate your individual differences.

I don't know what "ultrafeminine" means to him or to you, but I suspect that it may have something to do with the ultra-passive, subservient creture. Studies have revealed that while some insecure men may admire this type of woman, she is usually not as sexually satisfying as the more aggressive, direct, honest type of woman.

Clinical psychologist Dr. Manfred F. DeMartino reported that women with high IQs were often more sexually aggressive and less sexually inhibited than women of average intelligence. Your man, and others who share his fear of intellectual, strong women, may be looking in the wrong direction if they want sexual fulfillment.

Dr. De.Martino reports that intelligent women tend to have feelings of high self-esteem, they seem to be more adventurous more experimental and even more innovative in their sexual relationships. They are generally better informed on matters relating to sex and this helps to free them. Insecure, passive women are much more apt to be frightened of sex, generally, and of men, in particular.

One of the most important things to establish early in any relationship is open, honest communication. Now is the time to sit down with your friend and have a long, penetrating discussion about how you feel about sex and about his views on women. If you find you are in total disagreement, then it would be wise to look around for someone who would ultimately make a more rewarding partner.

Incidentally, marriages have a poor chance for survival if they are arranged in haste because one partner or another is pressured either by himself or by some outside force. Take your time, there's no rush.

Freezing tops canning often says director

NEW BRUNSWICK, N.J. (UPI) — Freezing generally retains more nutrients than home canning does, says Walter A. Maclinn, acting director of the Rutgers University College Experiment Station.

That's because there's less cooking, and less loss of vitamins and minerals into the liquid that most canned foods include.

Maclinn said thawed and refrozen foods lose quality and can spoil, but the chance of botulism is almost nil in frozen foods because there is no vacuum.

He added that there is no foolproof way to tell if canned food is safe to eat. Dangerous contamination, including deadly botulism, sometimes is both invisible and tasteless.

He recommended reboiling for specific times any home-canned low-acid food--meat, poultry, fish and vegetables—before tasting. A single taste, in rare but recorded cases, has been fatal.

Most fruits are safe from botulism contamination but can spoil and cause other types of food poisoning if they are packed with too little sugar or at too low a temperature.

Maclinn said most fruits are more acid than most vegetables, but much of the tartness is masked by their natural sweetness.

There Are Two Types of Arthritics -- You Could Be One of Them

By DR. W. P. HELZER, D.C.

Maybe it's time someone spoke frankly about arthritis.

A number of individuals advise arthritics to restrict your activities . . . relax, take it easy and don't use that painful joint. And—here, take these pain pills.

Dr. Wes Helzer D.C.

Quite frankly, that advice is so dangerous it frightens me.

Face the facts. The more an arthritic restricts his or her activities the more prone he or she is to a recurrence of an arthritic attack. And the 'Take it easy' period gets longer and longer until the person reaches the point of no return.

You just simply can't dig yourself out of a hole.

And as for pain killers, the more they're taken the less effective they become and the more they must be taken. It's quite a vicious circle.

What causes arthritis?

A number of causative factors must be considered in answering that question. The condition can be due to an injury sustained earlier in life . . . it could be as much as 15 years previously. Heredity may share the blame. It can be due to an infection.

Now, osteo or degenerative arthritis frequently affects hard-working people. For instance, a man who uses his back in his work. Housework, and especially ironing, can be the culprit in a woman's case. Or it may be an old athletic injury manifesting itself.

Arthritis knows no age barrier. It frequently strikes people in the 30's and 40's. And the number of cases now known to exist in the United States is astronomical.

What does an arthritis condition mean?

Commonly it means a stiffness and soreness in the back. The pain is such that it's difficult for a person to move quickly.

In the beginning, the condition comes and goes. The joints swell, there is soreness in the muscles. As an arthritic condition begins to make itself known all bodily functions are slowed.

There is frequent constipation, dizziness and often headaches. Chest pains, arm pains, knee pains . . . they all can be related. And frequently there is fatigue . . . chronic fatigue, I might add.

An arthritic begins to lose interest in activities that require action. They 'don't get around' as they once did.

Now, as I've noted, these conditions come and go . . . weather and barometer can be a factor in bringing on a bout with arthritis. Or maybe a golf game or a quickened pace of hard work.

But as time goes by the attacks become more frequent and last longer. In time the condition is permanently painful.

A big city needs a lot of water. Some cities are near big lakes or rivers. They find it easy to get enough water.

But very often the lakes or reservoirs upon which a city depends for water are many miles from the city. Then aqueducts must be built.

The word "aqueduct" comes from two Latin words which mean "water" and "to lead." An aqueduct, then, is a manmade channel to carry water from a lake or reservoir to a city.

Some aqueducts are huge steel pipes laid above ground. Others may be canals, open troughs or tunnels.

Most aqueducts gradually slope downhill so that the water flows by gravity.

In some cases, great metal siphons carry the water over hills, under rivers and across valleys, in much the same way you might siphon water from a bucket with a rubber hose.

Pumps may force the water through the aqueduct where it will not flow by gravity.

Here's wonderful news! A pocket radio, camera, World Almanac globe or other fine prize will be awarded to the first youngster sending in a question used here. Send your question and your age to Johnny Wonder, (c/o this newspaper), Box 1335 (DA), Santa Cruz, CA 95061.

No diminutives, please

Richard opens the door

By VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Richard Chamberlain, former Dr. Kildare, Shakespearean actor, movie star and all around good fellow, is seldom called "Dick."

But then neither Richard Widmark nor Richard Burton is called by the more familiar, diminutive nickname.

And it was Richard The Lion Hearted, certainly not Dick The Lion Hearted. For that matter it is Richard Crenna, Richard Basehart and in the history books it will go down as Richard Nixon.

But it is Dick Van Dyke, Rick Nelson and Dick York.

Chamberlain was invariably referred to as Dick when he began the "Dr. Kildare" series 15 years ago. But as his prestige grew so did the length of his name.

He did, in fact play "Richard II" on stage in England in 1971.

"Richard is a better name than Dick," Chamberlain said recently. "That's not to say I'm opposed to 'Dick.' I like that too.

"There is a definite formality to Richard which I like. In the book of names, you know, Richard means 'king.'"

There is a certain formality to Richard Chamberlain himself. He is neither back-slapper nor confidant. His manners are flawless, his savoir faire impressive.

He recently starred on television in "The Count of Monte Cristo" and can be seen on the big screen in "Towering Inferno" and "The Four Musketeers." He moves comfortably from stage to movies to television.

"I like to keep moving around from one to the other," Richard said. "The three mediums feed each other in different ways. The thrill of the stage is unbeatable, but there is great excitement when you get something cooking in the mechanical medium that is a triumph of humanity over technology."

No guy named Dick would make a statement like that.

He proved his Richard-ness by adding, "My fantasy of the ultimate actor is a man who can thrill your soul in a film one night and walk by you the next without being recognized.

"I call that creative anonymity. But only people like Sir Laurence Olivier can get away with that. The rest of us need box office appeal."

Chamberlain, it should be noted, found it needless to draw attention to the fact that it is Sir Laurence, not Sir Larry.

"I had the opportunity to see Robert (not Bob) Donat's performance in 'The Count of Monte Cristo' before I did the television movie version," said Richard. "But I was afraid I might mimic him so I turned it down.

"As for 'Towering Inferno,' I wanted to be in a big flashy Hollywood commercial movie and that was it."

He co-starred with Steve (not Stephen) McQueen.

Richard has no immediate plans for the future, but he does hope to return to the stage, perhaps another try at Shakespeare —that's William, not Bill.

Klien plans recital

Pianist Walter Klien will present a recital in Royce Hall, UCLA, at 8:30 p.m. Feb. 8.

He will play the Opus 116 Fantasies by Brahms; Mozart's Fantasy, and Sonata in A Minor; Schoenberg's "Six Kleine Stuecke," and "Gaspard de la Nuit" by Ravel.

Klien has toured extensively through Europe, South America, South Africa and the Far East. He has appeared with such ensembles as the Vienna, Berlin, Czech, Oslo and London philharmonics, the English Chamber Orchestra and the Lucerne Festival Strings. In one of his rare American appearances he performed Berg's Chamber Concerto with the San Francisco Symphony.

Klien also has received acclaim for his performances of 20th Century composers, and his recordings of Schubert with his sonata partner, violinist Wolfgang Schneiderhahn, have won great admiration.

The artist also has been in the process of recording the major piano works of Schumann for Vox records.

CHARLES LIBOVE

Violinist to solo with symphony

Internationally known violinist Charles Libove will be soloist with the San Gabriel Valley Symphony in a concert at the San Gabriel Civic Auditorium at 8:30 p.m. Saturday.

Conducted by Giora Bernstein, the orchestra's third concert of the season will feature Libove in Brahms' Violin Concerto in D. Other selections will be Mozart's overture to "The Abduction from the Seraglio'', and Ginastera's "Variaciones Concertantes."

Libove, professor of music at New York State University at Potsdam, has been the recipient of numerous prestigious awards. These included a scholarship to Curtis Institute of Music when he was 10, followed by studies at Juilliard School of Music where he won a National Federation of Music clubs competition, and a scholarship to Tanglewood.

He was a member of the Paganini String Quartet for four years, during which he won the prize of American Laureate at the First International Enescu Violin Competition at Bucharest.

He then formed the Philharmonica Piano Trio and joined the Beaux-Arts Strings Quartet as first violinist. Under his leadership, the group won a $20,000 prize at the Naumburg Foundation's first Chamber Music Award, and later commissioned a string quartet which was awarded the Pulitzer Prize.

Admission to the concert is by season membership card, or $2, adults; 50 cents for students. Discounts for groups of 25 or more are available at $1.50.

UC Riverside now holding print exhibit

An exhibition of prints and drawings by John Paul Jones is being held through Feb. 7 at the art gallery of UC Riverside.

Some 43 monotypes and drawings are featured in the show. The gallery is open Monday through Friday from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m., 2 to 5 p.m. on Sundays, or by appointment.

Jones taught for several years at UCLA and is now an art professor at UC Irvine. The 50-year old printer has had several shows in Los Angeles, and on the East Coast, in sculpture and painting as well as printmaking.

His monotypes are figures drawn on a rolled-in base on plate glass, the ink having been smeared to give an almost surrealistic effect. Paper is placed on the drawings and run through a press, resulting in a one-time-only image.

Though his style is distinctive, Jones has been compared to the French artist Redon, who used a similar visual atmosphere, and to Italian sculptor Giacommetti, whose lonely figures are frail and amorphous like those of Jones.

The works on display at UCR are mainly of human forms, either in profile or full-face, dark with almost unreadable expressions.

The drawings, fairly recent Jones works, contrast to the geometric artwork he exhibited in the 1950s and early 1960s. They were borrowed for the show from his regular gallery in Los Angeles, the Jodi Scully Gallery.

The program will feature Richard Strauss' "Serenade," to be played by a wind ensemble composed of Catherine Hayden and Carolyn Schaur, flutes; Valari Elardo and Jim Nagano, oboes; Al Rice and Gary Allens, clarinets; Joe Ognibene, Nancy Miller, Linda Irwin and Ma'lynn Newport, horns, and Sandra Fenton and Jerry Taylor, bassoons.

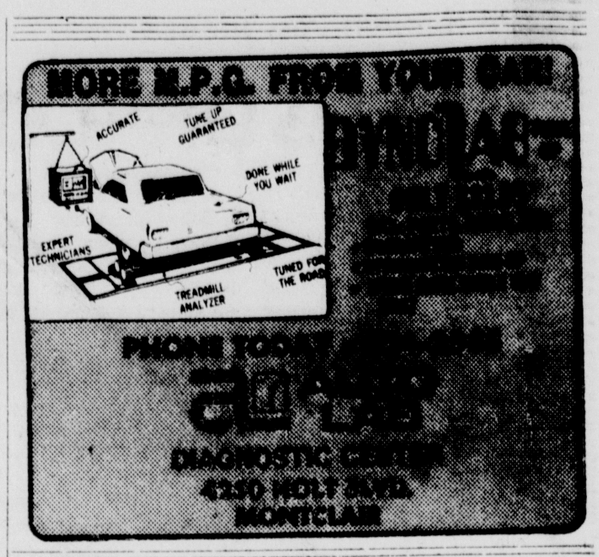

Frank Farris, pianist, will perform Beethoven's Six Variations in F Major. Classical guitarist Edward A. Axelrod will play six Italian lute pieces of the 16th Century, and guitarist Bruce Weber will perform works by Barroso, Villa-lobos and Tarrega.

Marquetta Stewart, cellist, and Lyn Gallagher, piano, will collaborate on Song Without Words in D Major, by Mendelssohn.

Two vocalists will perform works by Handel, Brahms, Purcell, Debussy and Stravinsky. They are Tom Marking, baritone, and Betty J. Ortiz, soprano. Richard Jensen, guitar, and Lynn Johnston, recorder, will perform duos by Byrd, de Medicis, Lanner, Hayden, Strauss, Mozart and Beethoven.

No matter what kind of price or sales talk you've been hearing, see your Chevrolet dealer before you buy.
☐ He's anxious to give you his best possible deal. And according to Manufacturers' Suggested Retail Prices, he can begin by offering you the lowest priced car in many model categories, including America's lowest priced wagon (Vega), America's lowest priced mid-size car (Chevelle Malibu Sedan Six), and America's lowest priced full-size car (Bel Air Sedan).
☐ He can also offer a high trade-in on many used cars, so the actual cost of your new Chevrolet might be much lower than you'd expect.

Allison captures 500

RIVERSIDE, Calif. (UPI) — When the inevitable question was asked, Bobby Allison's face broke into a wide grin.

"I sure hope," the affable veteran from Hueytown, Ala., replied, "the car passes inspection. And it will unless they find too much coke in the gas tank."

If Allison was worried at all after capturing Sunday's $114,000 Winston Western 500 in Roger Penske's Coca-Cola American Motors Matador, it didn't show.

And later in the post-race interview following the NASCAR Grand National opener for 1975, he volunteered, "This car definitely will pass inspection when they look at it."

Allison, 37, was hit by the largest fine in NASCAR history last November after driving a Penske Matador to victory in the Los Angeles Times 500. NASCAR officials discovered his car had illegal valve lifters.

Allison knew what he was talking about. The winner's car, along with the cars of two drivers whose names were pulled out of a hat in a pre-race drawing, passed inspection with flying colors.

Scoring his 44th Grand National career triumph, the popular Alabaman showed he may be the man to beat in stock car racing this year. He led all but 18 of the 191 laps around Riverside's testing 2.62-mile road course and finished 22.58 seconds in front of David Pearson in the Wood Bros. '73 Mercury in strictly a two-car race.

"I tried to run as hard as I could and still give myself a cushion," Allison explained. "My car just worked perfectly all day. I couldn't have asked for a better ride.

"It really helps to win this one. We've worked so hard to become competitive."

At the finish, Allison and Pearson were seven laps up on the No. 3 finisher Cecil Gordon of Horse Shoe, N.C. Allison and Pearson were the only two men on the same lap through the second half of the race.

Allison didn't take any chances against Pearson. He pulled into the pits with two laps to go to take on four gallons of fuel.

"We just wanted to be sure," he explained. "There's an awful lot of things that go through your mind when you have a big lead. Running out of gas is one of them."

The next stop on the NASCAR calendar is Daytona Beach, Fla. Feb. 16 for the biggest event of the Grand National season, the Dayton 500.

Sunday's race was run on a beautiful, smogless day when temperatures hit 85 degrees and the crowd of 53,000 was the largest for the event since a 1969 turnout of 60,800.

"It was really hot out there," Allison said. "But I enjoy the heat. The car ran real cool all day.

"I think I had an extra advantage, too, because the Penske crew is pretty versed at road racing. Believe me, that's very important with all the shifting you have to do here."

Allison, who won $14,735 in his red, white and blue machine, flew home to Hueytown after the race but will return to Southern California to tire test Penske's U.S. Auto Club championship car, a McLaren Offy at Ontario Thursday and Friday.

He revealed he'll drive a second brand-new Matador at Daytona Beach and then return to the car he piloted Sunday "for the shorter races."

Bobby Allison, who finished the 1974 NASCAR season with a victory at Ontario Motor Speedway, opened the 1975 campaign with a win at Riverside Raceway Sunday. He also won two victory kisses.

Kings back home in first place

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (UPI) — The Los Angeles Kings returned home from a seven-game road trip today in first place in the NHL's Division III after defeating the Montreal Canadiens 6-3 Sunday night.

The win over the Canadiens, sparked by a hat trick by Bob Nevin, gave Los Angeles a 26-7-12 record for 64 points, one more than the second-place Canadiens.

The Kings won six of seven games on the trip. Their only loss was a 5-0 setback in Atlanta.

Nevin got his fifth career three-goal night in Montreal Sunday, scoring twice on backhanders in the first period and adding another goal at 5:51 of the final period. Tom Williams had two scores for the Kings and Butch Goring added an insurance goal with 34 seconds left to play.

Los Angeles has a three-day break to rest up from the road trip before hosting the Toronto Maple Leafs at the Forum Thursday night. This weekend the Kings take to the road again, meeting the New York Islanders and the New York Rangers on Saturday and Sunday nights.

"It feels great to be with a team that's in first place," Nevin said. "It's a little more gratifying to be with the Kings than it was to be with some of the other teams I played with because on this team there are no superstars. We have just a great bunch of guys who have to work hard."

The Canadiens had a 21-game unbeaten streak snapped Saturday night in the Forum by the Toronto Maple Leafs. But even during their outstanding streak, the Canadiens were unable to shake the Kings.

In other NHL games Sunday, Pittsburgh edged Washington 3-2, Chicago beat California 3-1, Detroit and Minnesota tied 4-4, Buffalo shut out Kansas City 5-0 and Boston topped Toronto 6-3.

Penguins 3, Capitals 2

Rookie Cowen Campbell, Ron Schock and Jean Pronovost each scored a goal in Pittsburgh's victory over Washington. Steve Atkinson and Tom Williams scored for the Caps.

Black Hawks 4, Seals 1

Chicago scored two powerplay goals and one into an empty net to defeat the Seals. Each of the Chicago goals came in the final minute of each period. Jim Pappin scored two of the goals and John Marks the other for the Black Hawks. Jim Neilson scored California's only goal.

MSAC relay quartet wins

LOS ANGELES — Mt. San Antonio College's mile relay team captured first place at the 18th Sunkist Invitational Track and Field meet Saturday night at the Los Angeles Sports Arena.

The Mounties' team, consisting of Dave Kellogg, Bob Kramer, Greg Whalen, and John Huston won the first place award with a clocking of 3.26.2.

Southwest L.A. finished second in 3:27.9, and Glendale was third in 3:32.2.

Steve Scott, who is a product of Upland High and is now attending UC Irvine, place fourth in the Open half mile with a time of 1:56.3. The event was won by Rick Wohlhuter in 1:48.8.

Stan Whitley of the Cal International Track Club, who is a resident of Pomona and a school teacher in La Verne, placed third in the Open long jump with a mark of 25-6¾.

Hurdler Harry Frierson of Cal Poly took a third place in the 60 highs with a clocking of 7.3.

Chino High sprinter Jayson Law finished second in the first race of the high school 500-yard sprint. Law was clocked in 59.8 seconds, with Lynwood's Mike Granville winning the race in 59.6 seconds.

Dollie Fleetwood of the Southern California Cheetahs Track Club, placed second in the women's 60-yard dash in 7.0 seconds.

Barney Carral ran a lifetime best for the Cheetahs in taking a second place in the women's half mile in 2:19.6.

The Cheetah's "A" 640-yard relay team of Miss Carral, Vicki Almeida, Janet Ballard and Della Equipilag set a meet record in winning with a time of 1:117:6.

The "B" relay team of Lisa Peters, Dawn Peters, Tina Scott and Pam Newton took home second-place with a time of 1:19.3.

SAL leaders get prepared for showdown

By KEVIN CLOE
P-B Staff Writer

One more week.

That's how long San Antonio League basketball fans will have to wait for the big shootout.

Garey and Ganesha highs, currently sharing the lead in the SAL with 4-0 records, will face-off next Tuesday afternoon in the final game of the first round.

But that's NEXT Tuesday.

Meanwhile, everybody will just have to settle back and watch how the two teams fare this week.

The action begins Tuesday afternoon when Garey visits Claremont (1-3) and Ganesha travels to Upland (1-3). In the other two battles, Damien (3-1) host Chino (2-2), and Montclair (0-4) entertains Pomona (1-3). All games are scheduled for 4:45 p.m. tipoffs.

Obviously, Garey and Ganesha will be heavy favorites in their games.

Garey, the No. 1 ranked team in the CIF 3-A division with a 15-1 record, has been playing well lately after battling a minor slump for a while. Claremont, on the other hand, has been battling illness and also a slump of late.

The Wolfpack has the capabilities of knocking off one of the two leaders, but it hasn't yet put it all together in SAL play.

Ganesha, the No. 6 ranked team in the 3-A, put together an excellent game against Claremont Friday and hopes the momentum carries into this week.

Upland really hasn't had much punch all year, and should have problems with Ganesha's pressure defense and fast-break offense.

The Damien-Chino clash figures to be real close and exciting, with either team ending up on top. Damien is presently all alone in third place behind Garey and Ganesha, while Chino is sitting in fourth.

Although it probably won't be a game of high-quality basketball, Pomona's duel with Montclair should also be a close one.

Another for Miller

TUCSON, Ariz. (UPI) — The way Johnny Miller is destroying golf courses, you'd have to doubt even Jack Nicklaus can beat him this week when the PGA Tour moves to Pebble Beach, Calif., and the Bing Crosby National Pro-Am.

Not that anyone doubted Miller's star had finally ascended in 1974 when he won three tournaments at the start of the year and eight before it was all over, along with record earnings of $353,021.

But in the event there were any who needed final convincing Miller has reached superstar status, he provided it in Arizona the last two weeks — winning the Phoenix Open by a record-tying 14 strokes and the Dean Martin-Tucson Open by nine.

The 27-year-old Californian took the Phoenix with a 24 under par score of 260, lowest on the Tour in 20 years, and followed by winning the Tucson with a 25 under par score of 263. In the two tournaments, he had three eagles and 51 birdies, and he finished the Tucson Sunday with a record 61.

"The way I'm playing now," Miller said in victory Sunday, "I don't think there is anyone who can beat me."

Miller, presumably, includes Nicklaus in that group. In years past, Miller always has said that Nicklaus, winner of a record 14 major titles, was the best. Now, he isn't that sure.

"Jack is tough, he always is for me," Miller said, "but I'm looking forward to playing against him in the Crosby. It's another challenge and I feel up to it."

Miller said winning two tournaments in a row in Arizona doesn't take away anything from his desire to meet Nicklaus and play the three seaside courses on the Monterey Peninsula this week.

"I wouldn't miss playing in the Crosby for anything," Miller said, "I love the three courses there and if Jack is in the tournament, so much the better. Even if I won 10 tournaments in a row I wouldn't pass up the chance to play in the Crosby. Pebble Beach, especially, is sort of a home course for me."

Pebble Beach has been very kind to Nicklaus over the years. Jack won the U.S. Amateur, a U.S. Open and three Crosby titles over the famed course and like Miller, he is fond of the seaside layout.

Miller called his final round 61 in the Tucson "the greatest I've ever played in my life, even better than the 63 I got to win the U.S. Open two years ago."

It had to be one of the best rounds ever played period. Miller shot sub par on 10 holes and on the other eight he never was more than 15 feet away from a possible birdy. In all, he had nine birdies and an eagle on a card of 31-30.

"I hit the ball so good," he said, "it was a joke."

Maybe to Johnny it was a joke. What it did to John Mahaffey and Tom Watson was shattering. The two young pros played well enough to win any tournament, Mahaffey shooting rounds of 67-69-69-67 for a 16 under par score of 272 and Watson had 72-67-67-67 —273.

But Miller, who hasn't had a round over 69 this year, shot 66-69-67-61 —263. His final total beat the old tournament record here by eight shots and his 61 topped the 62 he shot a year ago in the first round of the Tucson Open.

Miller picked up $40,000 for his victory here and now has won $70,000 in two weeks. That's a little ahead of his pace of a year ago when he won $57,750 in taking the rain-shortened Crosby and Phoenix the first two weeks. If he wins the Crosby this week, it will mark the first time any player has taken the first three events two successive years.

Miller said the only way he can keep going these days is to set goals for himself along the way.

"I knew I was going to win Sunday," he said. "So after I got the eagle on 11, I started to think about shooting 59. The only way I can play to my potential is to set goals. Otherwise, it gets to be a little routine.

"Don't get me wrong. I'm not bored by winning. I want to win every time I go out there. The way I'm going now, though, people are expecting me to win some of the big ones and I'm going to concentrate more on them this year. I think that's the only way to measure a player —by the number of times he has won the major tournaments."

In a little more than four years on the Tour now, Miller has won 13 titles but his 1973 U.S. Open victory is the only major one. In his first five years, Nicklaus won 16 titles with five of them major ones.

Mahaffey, whose only Tour victory was in the 1973 Sahara, won $22,800 for finishing second here, while Watson, winner of the 1974 Western Open for his only title, took home $14,200.

Mike Hill and Don Iverson wound up in a tie for fourth at 276, 12 under par but 13 shots behind Miller, and won $8,800 each, while Al Geiberger finished at 278 and won $7,200.

Next, at 279 and winners of $5,900 each, were Bruce Crampton, Tommy Aaron and Leonard Thompson. Arnold Palmer, who made his 1975 debut in the Tucson but will pass up the Crosby, was 10th at 280 and he won $5,000.

Palmer, who played in only 20 events last year and won a career low of $36,293, said he was encouraged by his play here and he plans to compete more often in 1975. He goes next in the Hawaiian Open in two weeks.

Minor on all-rookie club

DENVER — Denver Bronco offensive tackle Claudie Minor, a product of Garey High and Mt. San Antonio College, has been named to the 1974 pro football writers all-rookie NFL team, it was announced Sunday.

Minor was placed in the offensive tackle spot with Kansas City's Charles Getty.

Don Woods, who rushed for over 1,000 yards in his rookie season after being sent from Green Bay to San Diego for the NFL's $100 waiver price, headed the 1974 pro football writers all-rookie team.

The former wishbone quarterback at New Mexico and New Mexico Highlands was joined in the backfield by a pair of San Francisco 49ers, running back Wilbur Jackson and quarterback Tom Owen.

Walton hires new advisor

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (UPI) — Controversial Bill Walton, who grows more-so every day off the court and on, has hired a lawyer who knows how to handle controversy.

Walton has hired Charles Garry, an attorney who in the past has represented Black Panther leaders, to guide him after he has apparently dropped Sam Gilbert, the wealthy Los Angeles businessman, as his advisor, friend and confidant.

Garry's hiring came out during the weekend in a story that said Gilbert now calls Walton a "bad apple" and said Walton had severed his relationship.

"I have no comment on what Sam says," Walton said here Sunday after Kareem Abdul-Jabber of the Milwaukee Bucks overpowered Walton and his Portland Trailblazers, 122-108. "I didn't read the article and I don't know what he said."

"I have hired Charles Garry who is a friend of mine," Walton said.

Garry has acted as an attorney for Huey Newton and Bobby Seale, two founders of the Panthers, and Sunday began working for Walton in San Francisco.

Garry denied the report in the weekend story that Walton tried to break his contract, calling it "completely false." Garry said he told Walton the pact was "iron clad and solid as the Rock of Gibralter."

"Bill came to me because I was closer to his point of view and more sympathetic to him," Garry was quoted in the New York Times. "He wanted legal advice on a number of matters including what rights he has under his contract with the Portland Trail Blazers."

Gilbert was quoted as saying Walton told him he had no confidence in the basketball ability of any of the Portland players except for Sidney Wicks, like Walton, a UCLA alumni.

"I think this whole thing is a very difficult situation," said Portland guard Geoff Petrie. "Bill is a very difficult person to understand —to communicate with. If he would only stand up and tell the players what he means. But he won't do that —or he can't."

"But it's not a healthy situation here," Petrie added.

Gilbert said Walton wanted to be traded from Portland.

"He told me it was too cold for him in Portland, that his feet were particularly cold when he practiced in the arena," Gilbert said.

The only reason Walton returned to Portland after missing 20 straight games, Gilbert said, "is that he couldn't get out of his contract."

"He tried in many ways and failed. Knowing his hostility to Portland, the players, the coach and the management, he will try and leave again. I believe he still wants to be traded."

Walton wouldn't say whether he wanted to be traded and repeated, "I like playing basketball. I like playing basketball."

Portland Coach Lenny Wilkens discounted any talk of difficulty with Walton.

"The guy's been injured and sick and he's got a lot of pressure on him," Wilkens said. "But I wish all this conflict would just go away so I could concentrate on basketball. I surely wish it would."

College basketball finals offer drama

By United Press International

For perhaps the first time in more than a decade, college basketball fans may be treated to what has become a rare spectacle in the post-season playoffs, a small thing called drama.

All indications during the first half of the campaign indicate that a wild scramble for the top prize is more than likely during the NCAA championships, with at least a handful of teams rating a good chance to capture the crown.

Since UCLA began its monstrous domination of the college basketball scene 11 years ago, only two other schools have broken through to win the NCAA championship. Texas Western, now known as Texas-El Paso, did in 1966 and North Carolina State ended the Bruins' record seven-year NCAA string last season.

Not only did UCLA win during all those years, there was very little drama associated with its monotonous cycle. Come tournament time, not even the various school PR directors could arouse much serious enthusiasm for the other contenders.

Things promise to be different at the end of this season, though, with the chances slim that any team enters the playoffs as an odds-on favorite. Only two major teams still are unbeaten, No. 1 Indiana and No. 4 Louisville, which twice has been extended into overtime, including Saturday's 55-53 triumph over Drake.

North Carolina State, last year's NCAA winner, already shows two losses this season, the latest a 103-85 debacle to Maryland last Thursday, and barely avoided a third setback by edging No. 14 North Carolina, 88-85, in overtime Saturday. And once-invincible UCLA, currently ranked second, suffered a 64-60 loss to Stanford Friday night before bouncing back for a 102-72 trouncing of California.

Stanford, which had a 6-6 record entering the UCLA match, was the big winner of the weekend and proved just how vulnerable any of the top teams can be. Rather than let down after their first victory over UCLA since 1966, the Cardinals followed it with a 67-66 squeaker over fifth-ranked Southern California on Saturday night.

Indiana, which has not won the NCAA title since 1953, has been the most consistent team this season, stretching its record to 16-0 by belting Northwestern, 82-56, Saturday. Kent Benson led the way with 20 points.

The rest of the top 10 teams also were successful Saturday. Sixth-ranked Maryland beat Navy, 87-73; seventh-ranked Alabama trounced Louisiana State, 93-67; eighth-ranked Arizona State defeated New Mexico, 93-76; No. 9 Oregon edged Washington, 68-66; and 10th-ranked Kentucky beat Mississippi, 85-82.

Sports news in brief

MIAMI (UPI) — The Baltimore Colts won a coin flip Sunday to earn the right to make the first pick in the 1975 National Football League college player draft Jan. 28-29.

NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle tossed the silver dollar that settled whether the Colts or the New York Giants would make the first selection.

If the Giants had won the toss, the Dallas Cowboys would have won the first choice, since New York traded its first draft choice to the Cowboys for quarterback Craig Morton.

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI) — Arkansas offensive coordinator Richard Williamson, a former player and assistant at Alabama, today was named head football coach at Memphis State University.

Williamson, 33, succeeds Fred Pancoast, who quit to take the head coaching job at Vanderbilt.

"I'm excited; I'm enthused," Williamson said at a news conference to announce his appointment.

SARASOTA, Fla. (UPI) — Billie Jean King wound up her career on the Virginia Slims tennis circuit Sunday in grand style, capturing the singles title and collaborating on a doubles victory in the $75,000 tourney here.

Ms. King, who says she will continue to play occasionally in major tournaments, won $15,000 for her 6-2, 6-3 victory over Chris Evert, the tournament's top seed for the past two years. It was the first professional loss the 19-year-old Miss Evert had suffered in Florida.

Then she joined Miss Evert for a victorious 6-4, 6-2 final doubles match against Betty Stove of the Netherlands and England's Virginia Wade.

TOKYO (UPI) — World junior middleweight champion Oscar Albarado of Los Angeles and challenger Koichi Wajima of Japan were relaxed and confident of victory in separate news conferences Monday before their 15-round title fight here Tuesday night.

MIAMI (UPI) — Old pro Kathy Whitworth survived a shaky finish on the final hole and won the $15,000 first prize in the Colgate Triple Crown LPGA championship Sunday by firing a one-over-par 73.

Miss Whitworth came into the tough par-four 18th hole in the famed Doral "Blue Monster" course with a comfortable four shot lead, but she hit her second into the water and then rimmed out a two-foot putt for a double bogey six.

Her final round of 73 in the $50,000 tournament gave her an even-par 144 for the 36 holes and a two-shot edge over second place Judy Rankin, who shot a 73 for a 146.

Joe Lewis visits the valley Sunday

By PHIL ROCHE
P-B Staff Writer

OFTEN TIMES I get the feeling that ex-world's champ Joe Louis would have traded his boxing glory for a touring golf pro's fluid swing and George Archer's putting stroke. I've seen Joe belt a golf ball, and he's a fine player, but not a great one. He loves golf and the people who play it, but maybe, just maybe, he should have been one of the world's great golfers — instead of a unique fighter.

Joe comes to the valley Sunday to play in his own tournament — one with the fanciest name ever — The First Invitational Joe Louis Super Celebrity Golf Tournament out at Via Verde.

Jimmy Powell, Via Verde professional, will be the host for Joe and his celebrity friends. A few expected to show up are Frank Sinatra, Dean Martin, Joe Namath, Glenn Campbell, San Dimas' Ed Nelson, Sammy Davis Jr., and Bob Hope.

Los Angeles mayor Tom Bradley is honorary chairman and Jim Lough, mayor of San Dimas, is head of the welcoming committee.

Gallery tickets are $10, and $9 gets you into the dinner honoring Joe. If you'd like to play in the tournament, the tab is $60.

TANK McNAMARA by Jeff Millar & Bill Hinds

This is last week before SAL face-off

Montclair has been crippled by illness and injury, while Pomona has been suffering through personnel problems and has had difficulty fielding a consistent starting lineup.

Garey High's Delbert McDonald, who has been consistent all year, is currently leading SAL in scoring with a 17.5 average. But his lead over the rest of the league isn't by much.

Montclair's Tony Esquibel, who has missed the Cavaliers' last two games with an ankle injury, is presently in second place with Pomona's James Knight, who was recently brought up from the Red Devil junior varsity club. Both players have been averaging 17.0 points an outing — although neither one has played in all four SAL contests.

Rounding out the top five scorers in the league is Upland's Mark Sorenson (16.8) and Damien's Jon Kolodge (15.3). Both players have really poured it on in league play after not really doing too much damage in the preleague campaign.

NFL stars play for money, pride in tonight's Pro Bowl

MIAMI (UPI) — Eighty stars from 22 NFL teams will play for pride and the difference between a $2,000 check for the winners and $1,500 for the losers in tonight's AFC-NFC pro bowl game.

The 80,010 capacity Orange Bowl is expected to be half-filled for the event. That would be a record low for the modern version of the event.

The previous low in the four

KABC (7), 6 p.m.

years since the establishment of the American and National football conferences was 47,879 in Dallas in 1973. But there is no threat to the all-time record —15,062 set in an East-West NFL game in 1967 at los Angeles.

On the field, the American conference is expected to win its fourth straight on the basis of what AFC coach John Madden of the Oakland Raiders calls a "young defense," anchored by half the Super Bowl champions' Pittsburgh Steelers front four.

In addition to the Steelers' Joe Greene and L.C. Greenwood, the defensive line will contain Miami's Bill Stanfill and Cleveland's Jerry Sherk. Two more Steelers—Jack Ham and Andy Russell —will patrol at outside linebacker with Baltimore's Mike Curtis in the middle.

Offensively, Madden will open with Oakland's Ken Stabler at quarterback and O.J. Simpson of Buffalo and Otis Armstrong of Denver at running back.

Madden said he will pull Armstrong after the first offensive play and insert the Miami Dolphins' Larry Csonka in order to get a fullback into the game instead of two halfbacks. Simpson and Armstrong are required to start because they led the coaches' voting for the game.

The Dolphins' Bob Griese also is expected to share about half the quarterbacking time with Stabler.

The NFC offense will feature St. Louis' Jim Hart at quarterback with Minnesota's Chuck Foreman at one running back and Lawrence McCutcheon of Los Angeles at the other.

Hart will be throwing to wide receivers Charlie Taylor of Washington and Drew Pearson of Dallas and tight end Charlie Young of Philadelphia.

Hart will be backed by James Harris who replaced Fran Tarkenton on the NFC's 40-man roster. Tarkenton withdrew from the game because of a sore arm.

Defensively, Minnesota will contribute half the starting front four Alan Page and Carl Eller. The defensive line will be rounded out by Merlin Olsen of Los Angeles and Claude Humphrey of Atlanta.

The game will be televised by ABC-TV's regular Monday night NFL crew.

Jabbar completely outclasses Walton

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (UPI) — Professional basketball players are used to stellar performances.

"Doing it" is what they call it.

And Sunday, nobody was "doing it" more than Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, who completely outclassed the latest pretender to his throne as the "King" of the National Basketball Association.

The Milwaukee Bucks whipped the Portland Trail Blazers 122-108 and AbdulJabbar led the way with 50 points, 15 rebounds, 11 assists and three blocked shots.

Rookie Bill Walton of Portland, a three-time player-of-the-year during his collegiate career at UCLA who is developing a reputation as the most uncommunicative player in the NBA, collected just seven points, six rebounds, seven assists and one block in 21 minutes of action.

Walton has been back only a week since missing 20 games because of various ailments and is trying to work himself back into shape. But he wasn't sharp Sunday and Abdul-Jabbar alluded to some of Walton's off-court difficulties.

"I haven't seen him play but he hasn't contributed to his team," said Abdul-Jabbar who was facing Walton for the first time in regular season play but did go against the 6-foot-11 redhead in a preseason contest.

The Trail Blazers stayed close through portions of the game and trailed by just eight points in the fourth period. But the Bucks scored eight straight points midway through the final quarter and coasted to the win.

The triumph moved the Bucks over .500 for the first time all season and it was an uplifting performance for a team that early in the season looked like it belonged in the minor leagues while playing without Abdul-Jabbar who was recovering from both an eye injury and a broken hand.

"We're really starting to put things together," Bucks Coach Larry Costello said. "Things are looking up."

The Bucks shot 53 per cent from the floor to 46 per cent for Portland and Milwaukee enjoyed a 51-41 edge in rebounds.

But it was the overall exciting performance of Abdul-Jabbar that was the key to the Milwaukee win.

"Kareem was just magnificent," said Oscar Robertson, a former Bucks guard and now a color commentator for CBS-TV. "I said before the game he would score 60 against Walton and LaRue Martin, but I missed by 10."

The victory kept Milwaukee three games behind first place Detroit in the Midwest Division as the Pistons kept pace by edging Cleveland 100-98. In other NBA games, Boston nipped Philadelphia 102-100 to remain one game in front in the Atlantic Division as second place Buffalo topped New Orleans 117-112, Phoenix beat Kansas City-Omaha 109-97 and Atlanta topped Seattle 117-109.

Pistons 100, Cavs 98

Bob Lanier and Dave Bing combined for 18 of their 40 points in the fourth quarter to give Detroit its win over Cleveland. John Mengelt, who came off the bench to tie Cleveland's Steve Patterson for the game high of 23 points sand two free throws with seven seconds left to seal the Pistons' 10th win in their last 12 games.

Celtics 102, 76ers 100

Dave Cowens' two free throws with one second remaining enabled Boston to get by Philadelphia. Jo Jo White had tied the game for the Celtics by hitting a 23-foot jump shot with only 14 seconds left. White paced the Celtics with 25 points while Philadelphia's Billy Cunningham led all scorers with 28.

Braves 117, Jazz 112

Bob McAdoo, the NBA's leading scorer, popped in 43 points to help Buffalo beat New Orleans. Pete Maravich led the Jazz with 40 points.

Suns 109, Kings 97

Charlie Scott scored 28 points before being ejected with 9:08 to play to lead Phoenix past Kansas City-Omaha. Scott was ejected after drawing his second straight technical foul. The Suns led 84-77 when Scott left the game and the Kings couldn't get any closer than two points the rest of the way. Jimmy Walker led Kansas City-Omaha with 31 points.

Hawks 117, Sonics 109

Tom Van Arsdale's 32 points led Atlanta over Seattle and continued the Hawks' reign over the Supersonics. Atlanta has beaten Seattle eight straight times over a three-year period. Fred Brown's 22 points topped the Sonics.

What color's a dinosaur?

BAYVILLE, N.J. (UPI) — Fred Brzozowski is at a loss as to what color to paint his dinosaur.

"What color is a dinosaur? Should he be elephant gray or lizard green?" asked Brzozowksi, who owns the town's roadside landmark —a 25-foot, cement coated metal dinosaur.

"I'd be just as happy painting it purple with black polka dots, but I want to make the people happy."

Brzozowski said that he would ask museums to leaf through their yellow-paged reference books to find out the animal's natural hue.

"I know we're going to put some scales on it to give it a lizard-like skin and it's already got new eyes, which I made out of domed glass paper weights," Brzozowki said.

The dinosaur scheduled for the face-lift has stood gallantly along Route 9 with its glass eyes on passing motorists for 40 years.

Brzozowski inherited the dinosaur when he bought the property in the late 1930's.

Adam's first

According to Assyrian legend, a female demon named Lilith was Adam's first wife, but bore him only demons.

Sears Highway Passenger Tire Guarantee

If you do not receive the number of miles specified because of your tire becoming unserviceable due to (1) defects, (2) normal road hazards, or (3) tread wearout.

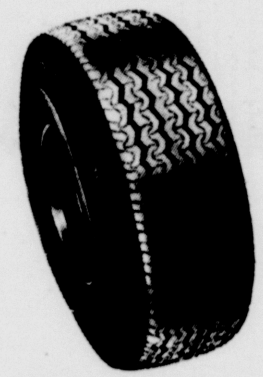

We will: At our option, exchange it for a new tire or give you a refund charging in either case only the proportion of the then current selling price plus Federal Excise tax that represents mileage used. If the tire is unserviceable due to any of the above causes before 10% of the guaranteed mileage is received, the replacement or refund will be made with no charge for mileage received. Nail punctures will be repaired at no charge.
